Media Control

Powerful corporations want to decide what you're able to watch, listen to, read and share. And runaway media consolidation among news organizations has squashed diverse, local and independent voices, leaving us in the dark about important developments in our communities.

Media Consolidation ->

Media mergers and monopolies silence our voices, raise prices and limit our choices.

Diversity in Media Ownership ->

Thanks to decades of runaway media consolidation and the FCC's failure to boost diverse ownership opportunities, women and people of color own only a fraction of our news outlets.

Our Work on Media Control

Who owns the media? How do we make sure regulations favor people, not corporations?
