SEIZING OPPORTUNITY & BUILDING POWER

DEMOCRACY ALLIANCE INVESTMENT CONFERENCE
WASHINGTON, DC
NOVEMBER 13-15, 2016
PARTICIPATION GUIDELINES

The Democracy Alliance strives to create a safe place for progressive funders and movement leaders to meet and discuss issues of common interest, develop relationships through dialogue and networking, and engage in conversations about progressive ideas and strategies.

One of the primary purposes of this conference is to generate support for Alliance Partner Organizations and engage in diverging perspectives connected to shaping political and policy transformation in America. In order to create a comfortable environment for everyone, we politely request that attendees not solicit one another for projects outside the DA’s purview at DA events.

DA conference participants are entitled to the expectation that their conference experience and their identity should remain confidential. In order to keep faith with that expectation, we ask Partners and guests to:

• Respect the privacy of others and not share Partners’ names or details of the conference with the press or post to personal media channels including, but not limited to, Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, YouTube, etc.

• Contact Ryan Rodriguez at (202) 689-4425 or rodriguez@democracyalliance.org if you are contacted by the media or a blogger about the conference.

• Refrain from leaving sensitive materials out where others may find them. We ask that all attendees dispose of unwanted conference materials in specially-identified recycling bins.

Please wear your name badge while within the conference area, and in particular, make sure it is clearly visible to staff when entering the ballroom and meeting rooms.

A NOTE FOR FOUNDATION REPRESENTATIVES

Foundation Representatives should review the agenda and decide whether there are any sessions which they believe would not be appropriate for them to attend, or prefer to attend in their personal capacities. Democracy Alliance staff and counsel are available to discuss any questions about the content of the sessions.
WELCOME TO WASHINGTON, DC!

Fall 2016

Dear Partners and Friends,

On behalf of the Democracy Alliance (DA) staff and Board, thank you for coming to our fall investment conference.

We are gathering at a pivotal moment for our country when we face a steep set of challenges that our conference, substantially overhauled in the last few days, will try to address, with the help of the best thinkers and strategists in our movement. We need to begin the process of asking hard questions about what happened, and start mapping a way forward in the face of a steep set of challenges and threats in every area in which progressives have gained ground. We need to grapple with long-standing currents of bigotry, racism, and misogyny that have moved into the mainstream, threatening our very democracy. If there was ever a time for progressives to come together and work toward a plan for moving forward, this conference, and the community gathered here, this is it.

Our new agenda is designed to help our community share successes and setbacks from the election, confront the challenges of this new administration, celebrate emerging progressive leaders, and look at deeper trends in the progressive world.

We can only rise to this moment the partnerships, collaboration, and commitment that define our community. Let's get started.

Sincerely,

Gara LaMarche
President
Democracy Alliance

John Stocks
Board Chair

LEADERS OF DA RECOMMENDED ORGANIZATIONS & EFFORTS

ROBIN BECK
Chief Strategy Officer, Citizen Engagement Lab

Robin Beck is a veteran campaign strategist, and has been providing innovative engagement advice to CEL's partners since 2013. As CEL's Chief Strategy Officer, Beck focuses on developing and testing new strategies to build mass participation in social change, hold political leaders and corporations accountable, and break through barriers to civic participation. Beck has extensive experience running social justice, environmental, and political campaigns. He is a former Campaign Director at MoveOn.org, and previously ran the online organizing programs at Change.org and Rainforest Action Network.

DEEPAK BHARGAVA
Executive Director, Center for Community Change

For the last 13 years, Deepak Bhargava has served as the executive director of the Center for Community Change, a social justice organization that empowers low-income and people of color to build social movements to improve their lives. He joined CCC in 1994, serving first as Director of Public Policy before becoming executive director in 2002. Bhargava has stewarded the organization's pioneering work to support and grow the immigrant rights movement including the successful campaign to achieve major executive action. During his tenure, the organization has also helped its partner organizations strengthen their leadership and civic engagement capacity, and contributed to significant policy change in areas such as healthcare, retirement security, affordable housing, improved refundable tax credits for low-income families, and access to good family-sustaining jobs. Bhargava emigrated to the US from India as a child, grew up in the Bronx (go Yankees!), and currently resides in New York City with his partner Harry Hanbury.

DAVID BROCK
Founder and Chair, Media Matters for America

David Brock is a widely published author and Democratic activist. In 2004, Brock founded Media Matters for America, the nation's premiere progressive media watchdog group. Following the 2010 elections, Brock founded the Super PAC American Bridge, which does opposition research to help elect Democrats to office. Brock serves as chairman of both organizations. Brock is the author of five political books, including his 2002 best-selling political memoir, "Blinded by the Right", "The Republican Noise Machine" and "The Fox Effect." His writing has appeared in USA Today, the Huffington Post, the Daily Beast, and Salon.

JUDITH BROWNE DIANIS
Executive Director, Advancement Project

Judith Browne Dianis has an extensive background in civil rights litigation and advocacy in the areas of voting, education, policing, housing, and employment. She has protected the rights of people of color in the midst of some of the greatest civil rights crises of our modern times, including in Florida after the 2000 election and in New Orleans after Hurricane Katrina. She has done pioneering work in ending the school-to-prison pipeline. Under her leadership, Advancement Project has helped build and strengthen a grassroots movement to end harsh discipline that pushes out children of color and criminalizes them. Dianis authored groundbreaking reports on the issue, including Opportunities Suspended (2000) and Derailed: The Schoolhouse to Jailhouse Track, detailing the unnecessary criminalization of students by their schools. Working closely with grassroots organizations, Advancement Project's work has significantly decreased student suspensions and arrests in Denver, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Buffalo, and Florida. In recognition of Dianis' work on these issues, she was named a Black Male Achievement Social Innovator by the Leadership & Sustainability Institute. In 2013, she was awarded a Prime Movers Fellowship for trailblazing social movement leaders. In 2015, Dianis was awarded the Sankofa Award from the National Bar Association for her efforts to improve education for Black children.

SEIZING OPPORTUNITY & BUILDING POWER
DEMOCRACY ALLIANCE SPRING 2016 INVESTMENT CONFERENCE
LEADERS OF DA RECOMMENDED ORGANIZATIONS & EFFORTS

DAN CANTOR
National Director, Working Families Party

Dan Cantor is the National Director of the Working Families Party/Working Families Organization. Founded in New York in 1998 by a coalition of community organizers, union leaders and progressive intellectuals, the WFP/WFO is now active in 9 states with several more states in development. The American Prospect calls the WFP “the most effective political operation the American left has seen in decades.” His work history includes time with ACORN in Arkansas, Texas, and Missouri; as a union organizer in New Orleans and Detroit; as Labor Coordinator for Rev. Jesse Jackson’s 1988 presidential campaign; as a foundation program officer; and as co-founder with Joel Rogers of the WFP’s predecessor, the New Party. Cantor was born and raised in Levittown, Long Island, where he was involved in his first political campaign at the age of 8, helping to elect his mother to the town’s Library Board.

KEVIN CURTIS
Executive Director, NRDC Action Fund

Kevin Curtis has recently joined the NRDC Action Fund as its new Executive Director. Curtis previously served as executive director of the Partnership Project, a formal collaboration of 19 national environmental groups. He brings a deep understanding of environment, energy and climate policies, and politics, and experience in senior nonprofit management, in coordinating environmental advocacy campaigns, and as a facilitator. He previously served as the chief program and advocacy officer at the Climate Reality Project. Prior to that, Curtis served as a deputy director of the Pew Environment Group where he was responsible for campaign operations as well as the global warming and U.S. public lands campaigns. He also worked for a decade at the National Environmental Trust, a multi-issue environmental advocacy and communications organization that merged into the Pew Charitable Trusts. Before joining the environmental advocacy movement, Curtis was a senior facilitator at the Keystone Center where he facilitated and mediated negotiations and other processes between environmental advocates, business, government, and other stakeholders on a wide range of environmental and scientific policy issues. Proudly from Colorado, Curtis received his MBA from Yale and his BA in Philosophy from the University of Colorado.

LISA DONNER
Executive Director, Americans for Financial Reform

Lisa Donner is the Executive Director of Americans for Financial Reform (AFR), a coalition that brings together more than 200 national, state and local groups to work together to reform the financial industry. Members of the coalition include consumer, civil rights, labor, community, faith based, and business groups, as well as economists and other experts. Our goal is a financial system that is fairer for consumers, and that better serves an equitable and sustainable real economy, rather than putting it at risk. Prior to joining AFR – first as Deputy Director – Donner was the Executive Director of the Half in Ten Campaign, and the co-director of the Center for Working Families. In these positions she developed and promoted policy on fair taxes, work and family, anti-poverty measures, and green jobs. Before that, Donner was a union and community organizer and campaign strategist.

DANIEL ESPINOSA
People’s Action

Daniel Espinosa has spent the last eight years building new programs and strategies at People’s Action (formerly National People’s Action before merging with Alliance for a Just Society & US Action in 2016). These include the Long-Term Agenda for a New Economy that re-founded the people-power organization around an ideological mission to structurally transform the economy and society and a strategy to use electoral politics to build an independent people’s voice that shifts the debate to the Left. Espinosa continues to lead the long-term power strategies of the now-expanded network of organizations in People’s Action. He has roots in the Midwest, Southwest U.S. and Mexico City and now lives with his wife and two sons in the Chicago area.
CAROLINE FREDRICKSON
President, American Constitution Society

Caroline Fredrickson joined the American Constitution Society for Law and Policy (ACS) in 2009 and serves as president. She oversees the group and provides a steady hand of leadership to the nation’s leading progressive legal organization. She is author of Under the Bus: How Working Women Are Being Run Over (The New Press, 2015). Before joining ACS, Fredrickson served as the director of the ACLU's Washington legislative office and as general counsel and legal director of NARAL Pro-Choice America. In addition, she was chief of staff to Sen. Maria Cantwell and deputy chief of staff to then-Senate Democratic Leader Tom Daschle. During the Clinton administration, she served as special assistant to the president for legislative affairs. Fredrickson is a member of Law Students for Reproductive Justice's Advisory Board. In 2013, she was named a Public Member of the Administrative Conference of the United States (ACUS). She is also co-chair of the National Constitution Center’s Coalition of Freedom Advisory Board. In 2015 she was named a Demos Senior Fellow.

CHRISTIE GEORGE
Director, New Media Ventures

Christie George is the Director of New Media Ventures, the first national network of angel investors supporting media and tech startups that disrupt politics and catalyze progressive change. At New Media Ventures, she has overseen the investment of over $4.5m into a portfolio of non-profits and for profits, including NationalField, Sum of Us, and Upworthy. Her work centers on fostering an independent, vibrant, and diverse media sector. She has spent her career supporting individuals and institutions that are making media that matters—from independent filmmakers documenting powerful stories to social entrepreneurs disrupting the way media is created, distributed and promoted. George started her career at a venture capital firm, spent six years managing sales and marketing for Women Make Movies, the world’s leading distributor of films by and about women, and is a co-founder of Louder, the crowd-promotion platform for ideas that matter. She serves on the board of the Roosevelt Institute and was recently named a Social Citizen Ambassador by the Case Foundation. George holds a BA from Yale University and a MBA with distinction from the University of Oxford, where she was a Skoll Scholar in Social Entrepreneurship and graduated with the Said Prize, awarded annually to the program’s top student. She lives in San Francisco and is a proud co-owner of the Rio Theater in Monte Rio, CA.

ROBERT GREENSTEIN
President, Center on Budget and Policy Priorities

Robert Greenstein is an expert on the federal budget and a range of domestic policy issues, from anti-poverty programs and various aspects of tax policy to health reform and Social Security. In 1996, he was awarded a MacArthur Fellowship for making “the Center a model for a non-partisan research and policy organization.” In 2008, he received the Heinz Award for Public Policy for his work to “improve the economic outlook of many of America’s poorer citizens,” and the John W. Gardner Leadership Award, for “playing a defining role in how people think about critical budget and tax policies and helping the nation address fiscal responsibility, reduce poverty, and expand opportunity.” Prior to founding the Center, Greenstein helped design the landmark Food Stamp Act of 1977, generally regarded as the Carter Administration’s principal anti-poverty achievement. He was appointed by President Clinton in 1994 to serve on the Bipartisan Commission on Entitlement and Tax Reform, and headed the federal budget policy component of the transition team for President Obama. He is a graduate of Harvard College and has received honorary doctorates from Tufts University and Occidental College.
LEADERS OF DA RECOMMENDED ORGANIZATIONS & EffORTS

GENE KARPINSKI
President,
League of Conservation Voters

Gene Karpinski joined LCV in April 2006 after serving for more than a dozen years as a member of the LCV and LCVEF Boards of Directors and the LCV Political Committee. Under his leadership, LCV has played a lead role in the environmental community’s efforts to pass clean energy and climate policies. Additionally, LCV’s electoral budget has more than tripled since 2006. Prior to joining LCV, Karpinski worked for 21 years as the Executive Director of the U.S. Public Interest Research Group (U.S. PIRG), the national lobbying office for state PIRGs across the country, where he led many national environmental issue campaigns. He has served on a number of national boards, including America Votes, Earth Share, the Partnership Project, the Belden Fund, and the National Association for Public Interest Law. He is a graduate of Brown University and Georgetown University Law Center.

BRIAN KETTERING
Co-Director,
Center For Popular Democracy

Brian Kettering currently serves as Co-Director for the Center for Popular Democracy (CPD), a high-impact national organization that builds organizing power to transform the local and state policy landscape through deep, long-term partnerships with leading community-based organizing groups nationwide. Kettering has helped grow CPD core partners to eleven national partners and forty-three state partner organizations in thirty states. Prior to joining CPD, he was the Executive Director of the Leadership Center for the Common Good which played essential roles in campaigns for economic justice, Wall Street accountability, education reform, environmental justice, and more. In January 2014, Common Good merged with CPD. During his 18-year organizing career, Kettering helped run a wide range of campaigns including: living wage, anti-predatory lending campaigns, urban school reform, campaign finance reform, tenant legislative protections, adoption of a progressive federal budget, passage of a federal economic recovery package, and campaigns promoting smart growth and environmental justice.

HEATHER MCGHEE
President, Demos

Heather C. McGhee is President of Demos, a public policy organization working for an America where we all have an equal say in our democracy and an equal chance in our economy. In 2009, she co-chaired a task force within Americans for Financial Reform, and in 2008 she served as the Deputy Policy Director in charge of Domestic and Economic Policy with the John Edwards for President Campaign. She holds a B.A. in American Studies from Yale University and a J.D. from the University of California at Berkeley School of Law. McGhee is a MSNBC Contributor, a member of the World Economic Forum’s Global Agenda Council on Civic Participation, and serves on the boards of the Center for Working Families and Consumer Reports.

LAWRENCE MISHEL
President,
Economic Policy Institute

Lawrence Mishel came to the Economic Policy Institute in 1987 as EPI’s first research director and later became vice president and then president (since 2002). He has played a significant role in building EPI’s research capabilities and reputation. He has written and spoken widely on the economy and economic policy as it affects middle- and low-income families. He is principal author of The State of Working America (published even-numbered year since 1988), which provides a comprehensive overview of the U.S. labor market and living standards. He also leads EPI’s education research program. Prior to joining EPI, Mishel worked as an economist for various unions and taught at Cornell’s Industrial and Labor Relations School. Mishel has a PhD in economics from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

KAREN NUSSBAUM
Executive Director,
Working America

Karen Nussbaum has been fighting for the rights of working men and women for over four decades. She was a founder and director of 9to5, National Association of Working Women; president of District 925, SEIU; and the director of the U.S. Department of Labor Women's Bureau, the highest seat in the federal government devoted to women's issues, during the first Clinton Administration. She is the executive director of Working America, Community Affiliate of the AFL-CIO. Working America has 3 million members and is the fastest growing organization for working people in the country.

CHRISTINE OWENS
Executive Director, National Employment Law Project

Christine Owens is the Executive Director of the National Employment Law Project, which undertakes research, education and advocacy for low wage, unemployed, and immigrant workers. Previously, she served as Director of Public Policy for the national AFL-CIO, the Democratic National Committee's American Majority Partnership director, and an attorney in private practice and the federal sector, representing workers in employment law matters. She earned her B.A. from the College of William and Mary and her J.D. from the University of Virginia. Owens is a member of the board of the directors of the Coalition on Human Needs, which in 2010 honored her as its Human Needs Hero of the year. In 2014, the White House recognized her as a Champion of Change for her efforts to raise wages for low paid workers. She and her husband, Sandy Newman, President of Voices for Progress, live in Takoma Park, MD.

NICK PENNIMAN
President, Issue One

Nick Penniman is the former executive director of the Huffington Post Investigative Fund, which he founded with Arianna Huffington in 2009. Staffed by veteran journalists from mainstream newspapers and magazines, the team focused on uncovering stories behind the financial crises that precipitated the Great Recession. The Investigative Fund was favorably profiled in the American Journalism Review and the Columbia Journalism Review, and later merged with the Center for Public Integrity. Prior to that, Penniman launched the American News Project, an experiment in online video muckraking. He has also been publisher of The Washington Monthly magazine, where he oversaw a redesign of the magazine; the executive editor of TomPaine.com, where he focused the operation on shaping elite opinion about public-interest issues; and the associate editor of the American Prospect, where he wrote extensively about the nonprofit sector and government reform. He has served on multiple nonprofit boards and advisory boards, including the Homeless Empowerment Project and the Roosevelt Institute. He has appeared regularly on MSNBC and blogs frequently on the Huffington Post. His most recent essay about money in politics was published by the journal Democracy.

LAURA QUINN
Chief Executive Officer, Catalist

Laura Quinn currently manages and helped found Catalist, which provides comprehensive voter data and related data services to progressive organizations. She previously served as a Deputy Chief of Staff for Vice President Gore at the White House; and as Director of the Democratic Technology and Communications Committee for Democratic Majority Leader Tom Daschle, and in communications and economic policy positions for Jay Rockefeller and Joe Biden, in the U.S. Senate. Prior to her work in business and government Quinn served in senior management and consulting roles for several progressive not-for-profits, and national and state-wide political and advocacy campaigns.

NICK RATHOD
Executive Director, State Innovation Exchange

Nicholas Rathod is the Executive Director of the newly formed State Innovation Exchange (SiX), combining the efforts and resources of the Progressive States Network, the American Legislative & Issue Campaign Exchange, and the Center for State Innovation. Prior to joining SiX, Rathod served as the Director of State Campaigns for Mayor Bloomberg's Everytown for Gun Safety, where he directed state legislative campaigns. He also served as the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau’s (CFPB) Assistant Director for Intergovernmental and International Affairs, where he helped in building the structure of the CFPB and setting up the intergovernmental affairs and international operations for the agency. Before this role, Rathod served as a Special Assistant to the President of the United States and Deputy Director for Intergovernmental Affairs at the White House. He also served as the Director of Intergovernmental Affairs for the Obama-Biden Transition Team. In these roles he set up the Intergovernmental Affairs office for the Obama White House and was primarily responsible for President Obama’s policy and political work in the states and US territories. Rathod has also served as a Senior Advisor to former New York Governor Eliot Spitzer and Senior Manager of State and Regional Affairs at the Center for American Progress.

SCOTT REED
Executive Director, PICO National Network

Scott Reed is the Executive Director of the PICO National Network, comprised of multi-racial and multi-faith organizations working to advance racial and economic justice domestically and internationally. Reed has been a community organizer since the early 70’s, working with leaders, clergy and staff to build organizations throughout the country that are able to build sustainable power to create and transform the systems that impact the daily lives of working families. Reed has shepherded PICO into a trans-local organizing network of fifty-two member organizations who are shaping the public debate in 150 cities, 19 states and in Washington, D.C. As a result, a prophetic narrative that is rooted in the belief that each and every person matters, is challenging policies and resource decisions that undermine equity in health care, transportation, education, violence and mass incarceration, full rights of citizenship, neighborhood health, and access to credit and jobs.

RASHAD ROBINSON
Executive Director, ColorOfChange.org

Rashad Robinson serves as Executive Director of ColorOfChange.org. With over 1 million members, ColorOfChange is the nation’s largest online civil rights organization. Since 2005, ColorOfChange has been a leading force in holding government and corporations accountable to Black people and advancing visionary solutions for building a just society for everyone. For the past four years, Robinson has greatly expanded the scope and impact of the organization, and continued to build a member-driven movement around the issues that matter most to Black folks. In 2015, Fast Company named ColorOfChange the 6th Most Innovative Company in the world, “for creating a civil rights group for the 21st century.” Under Robinson’s leadership, ColorOfChange developed and led a national campaign against the right-wing policy shop, the American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC). After exposing ALEC’s involvement in passing discriminatory voter ID and deadly Stand Your Ground laws, ColorOfChange pushed over 100 corporations to end their financial support of ALEC. He has appeared in hundreds of news stories, interviews, and political discussions through outlets including ABC, CNN, MSNBC, and NPR. Prior to his work at ColorOfChange, Robinson served as Senior Director of Media Programs at GLAAD, where he led the organization’s programmatic and advocacy work to transform the representation of LGBT people in news and entertainment media.

EDITH SARGON
Executive Director, Wellstone Action

Edith Sargon is Wellstone’s Executive Director, and assumed this role on May 1st. Prior to becoming ED, Sargon was the Director of Impact for Wellstone, where she guided the strategic direction for our program team and led our crew of political leadership, movement building, and movement technology practitioners to win progressive change across the country, the Wellstone Way. Sargon also directs the Sheila Wellstone Institute, which continues Wellstone’s commitment to building power and engaging broad community support to ensure that ending violence against women and children is a national priority. Prior to her work at Wellstone, Sargon has more than a decade of experience as an organizer and strategist in the national labor, youth, and reproductive justice movements. Her experience as an organizer, a queer woman of color, and a child of immigrants and working-class parents helps her recognize and strategize around interconnected issues.
JUSTINE SARVER
Executive Director,
Ballot Initiatives Strategy Center

Justine Sarver is the Executive Director of the Ballot Initiative Strategy Center, the progressive community’s only organization focused solely on ballot measures. Before joining BISC, Sarver served as the Deputy Chief of Staff for Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius. Previously, she worked on President Obama’s campaign as the Southwest Regional Director, overseeing campaign activities in battleground states. Throughout her career, Sarver has been intensely involved with ballot initiative campaigns, working on issues ranging from economic fairness, reproductive health, immigrant rights, criminal justice reform, voting rights and LGBTQ equality. She served as the Organizing Director for the ACLU of Northern California and as Vice President of the Planned Parenthood Affiliates of California. Sarver was also the Political Director for the San Diego Labor Council, AFL-CIO. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

LONNIE SCOTT
Executive Director, ProgressNow

Lonnie Scott is a leading progressive communicator, with extensive legislative, advocacy, non-profit, and public policy experience. Before being selected to serve as the ProgressNow Executive Director, Scott served as the Executive Director of Progress Michigan for nearly three years. He will continue to serve in both roles. Prior to joining Progress Michigan, Scott served as State Director for Enroll America, a national non-profit working to educate people about the new healthcare options made available by the Affordable Care Act. Prior to working for Enroll America, Scott served as Communications Director for Know Your Care/Protect Your Care. He previously served as a chief staffer for State Reps. Alma Wheeler Smith and Jeff Irwin. Scott graduated from Central Michigan University (FIRE UP CHIPS!). He lives in Ypsilanti Township, MI, with his wife, Heather; son, Landyn; daughter, Madison; and their dogs, Brewer and Phoenix.

MELISSA SPATZ
Program Director, Piper Fund

Melissa Spatz is the Program Director at the Piper Fund, an initiative of the Proteus Fund that works to build a movement to address the issues of money in politics and fair courts. An attorney and long-time nonprofit leader, Melissa brings 25 years’ experience as a legal services lawyer, community organizer, nonprofit director, writer and consultant. She has directed two award-winning Chicago-based organizations, and led national organizing campaigns through the National People’s Action network. In addition to democracy issues, her efforts have addressed a wide range of issues including media justice, housing rights, police accountability, health care, and gender equity. Spatz has founded and co-founded numerous projects and organizations, including the Columbia Journal of Gender & Law, the Women’s Rights Project at Human Rights Watch, the Chicago Freedom School, Chicago Youth United, and the Center for Emerging Leadership. She holds a BA from Swarthmore College and a JD from Columbia Law School.

GREG SPEED

Hill. He has led AV for the past six years, directing operations and coordination of independent programs throughout the 2008, 2010, and 2012 election cycles. Previously, Speed served as communications director for the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee in the 2004 election cycle. He worked as press secretary for Congressman Martin Frost during his tenure as Democratic Caucus Chair. He also directed communications for IMPAC 2000, the national Democratic redistricting project in 2001-2002, and led multi-state public education advocacy campaigns as national communications director for Communities for Quality Education (CQE). Speed currently serves on the boards of Priorities USA, ProgressNow, and the Ballot Initiative Strategy Center. He was raised in "Chicagoland" and received a B.A. from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. He and his wife, Lona Valmoro, reside on Capitol Hill with their two children.

NEERA TANDEX
President,
Center for American Progress

Neera Tanden is the President of the Center for American Progress. Tanden previously served on President Obama’s health reform team to develop and pass the Affordable Care Act. Prior to that, she was the director of domestic policy for the Obama-Biden campaign, managing all domestic policy proposals. She had served as policy director for the Hillary Clinton presidential campaign, legislative director to Senator Clinton and associate director for domestic policy and senior advisor to the First Lady in the Clinton administration.

Gloria Totten is the founder and President of Progressive Majority and the Public Leadership Institute (PLI). For more than 20 years, she has directed nonprofit organizations and led grassroots organizing campaigns on the federal, state and local levels. Totten has led Progressive Majority from 2001, served as Political Director for NARAL from 1996-2001, and as Executive Director for Maryland NARAL from 1993-1996. In her home state of Minnesota, she worked as the Education Director for Pro-Choice Resources, President and Lobbyist for the Minnesota Coalition Against Sexual Assault, and Media Chair for It's Time Minnesotan. Totten serves as chair of the board of directors for Brave New Films and as a board member for the New American Leaders Initiative. She is an Advisory Committee Member for the Drum Major Institute Scholars Program, Political Parity, ProgressNow, Wellstone Action, and the Women’s Information Network.

ROGER VANN
Executive Director, State Voices

During his 25-year career as a nonprofit manager and volunteer leader, Roger C. Vann has held a variety of positions dedicated to civic participation, progressive issue advocacy, and grassroots leadership development. Most recently, as chief operating officer and chief of staff for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Vann oversaw day-to-day management and led the development and implementation of the NAACP’s successful 2012 civic engagement strategy, responsible for securing over 430,000 voter registrations nationwide. Vann previously served as the NAACP’s national membership director, chief development officer, and SVP of field operations and membership. His 20-year long association with the NAACP began when, at age 28, he was elected the youngest president in the history of the Greater New Haven, Connecticut Branch. In 1999, as president of the Connecticut NAACP, Vann led a statewide grassroots effort to win passage of one of the nation’s first laws addressing racial profiling. A lifelong champion of civil liberties and workers’ rights, Vann has served as executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Connecticut as well as director of the African American Hiring Initiative for the International Union UNITE HERE. A graduate of Brown University, Vann lives in Virginia with his wife and three children.

MICHAEL WALDMAN
President, Brennan Center for Justice

Michael Waldman is President of the Brennan Center for Justice at NYU School of Law, a nonpartisan law and policy institute that works to reform and revitalize the systems of democracy and justice. The Center is a leading national voice to protect voting rights, reduce the influence of big money in politics, curb mass incarceration, and balance liberty and national security. Waldman has led the Center since 2005. Previously, he was Director of Speechwriting for President Bill Clinton from 1996-99, serving as...
Assistant to the President. He appears frequently in the media to discuss public policy, the presidency, and the law. His books include My Fellow Americans (2011), The Second Amendment: A Biography (2014), and a major forthcoming book on the history of voting rights in America, The Fight to Vote (Simon & Schuster, February 2016). Waldman is a graduate of Columbia College and NYU School of Law.

FELICIA WONG
President & CEO,
The Roosevelt Institute

Felicia Wong is the President and CEO of the Roosevelt Institute, which seeks to re-imagine the social and economic policies of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt for the 21st century. She came to the Institute from the Democracy Alliance, where she led the development and assessment of the organization’s strategic investment portfolio. Previously, Wong ran operations and product development at a venture-funded education services company. Her public service includes a White House Fellowship in the Office of the Attorney General and a political appointment in the Office of the Secretary of the Navy. She holds a Ph.D. in political science from the University of California, Berkeley. Her doctoral dissertation on the role of race and framing in K-12 public education politics received the 2000 American Political Science Association award in Race, Ethnicity, and Politics.

ELIZABETH WYDRA
President,
Constitutional Accountability Center

Elizabeth is the President of Constitutional Accountability Center, a think tank, law firm and action center dedicated to fulfilling the progressive promise of our Constitution’s text and history. A graduate of Claremont McKenna College and Yale Law School, Wydra joined CAC in 2008, serving first as Chief Counsel where she built the organization’s successful litigation program from the ground up before becoming President in 2016. For over eight years, Wydra has stewarded CAC’s work, which focuses on Supreme Court litigation and high-stakes cases in the federal courts of appeals as well as fostering public conversation about the Constitution’s arc of progress. CAC’s clients include congressional leaders, preeminent constitutional scholars, state and local legislators, and government organizations. In a recent study published by Empirical SCOTUS, Wydra, representing CAC as the counsel of record, was found to have had the greatest cumulative success rate during the Supreme Court’s last Term, a rate greater than that of any other attorney appearing on briefs, including several former U.S. Solicitors General and counsel for other organizations. Wydra appears frequently in print and on air as a legal expert for numerous media outlets, and speaks throughout the country on the progressive promise of the U.S. Constitution.
SARAH AUDELO
Former Millennial Vote Director,
Hillary for America
Sarah Audelo, the former National Millennial Vote Director on the Hillary for America campaign, led the campaign's organizing and outreach efforts targeting the Millennial generation. From a robust campus program to policy and engagement reflecting the varied experiences of 18-35 year olds, Sarah worked with colleagues to embrace the diversity of the generation as a cornerstone to the campaign's work. TOM SWEENEY
Former President and CEO, The Gill Foundation

Tim Sweeney is the former president of the Gill Foundation. All people regardless of sexual orientation or gender expression. He was an early leader in the struggle to confront the AIDS epidemic, a national and state political organizer, and a successful foundation executive. He continues to be in the forefront of the most significant issues affecting lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender Americans. Sweeney most recently worked with a progressive family foundation and succeeded in building their efforts into one of the nation’s largest funders of the lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender movement. As program director of the Evelyn & Walter Haas, Jr. Fund’s equality and justice and nonprofit leadership and governance programs, as well as head of gay and lesbian programs, he helped the heirs to the Levi Strauss fortune advance equality. He worked to build national efforts to support the rights of lesbian and gay couples to civil marriage and provided support for organizations implementing a California law that safeguards the rights of LGBT students. What Sweeney calls his “crucible” came during the early years of the AIDS epidemic when discrimination was rampant, fear was pervasive, and services were almost non-existent. Sweeney served for five years as executive director of the Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund, successfully suing landlords in the nation’s first successful HIV discrimination case. From 1986 to 1993, he served as deputy director and then executive director of the Gay Men’s Health Crisis, helping to build the largest community-based HIV/AIDS service, prevention, and advocacy organization in the world. Under his leadership, the organization formed a national coalition to press Washington to pass antidiscrimination legislation. Working with allies, they secured passage of the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Ryan White Care Act.

Hiking and Biking
Washington, DC is bisected by Rock Creek Park, a national park with many options for hiking, jogging, and biking along forest trails. The Mandarin Oriental suggests three different circuits and can provide maps for your convenience—around the National Mall, past all the scenic federal monuments near the Tidal Basin, or a more strenuous route that will take you past the White House and the United States Capitol. For further information, contact the hotel concierge.
GARDEN 1 AND GARDEN 2 ARE LOCATED ON THE LOBBY LEVEL OF THE HOTEL. THE CAPITOL ROOM IS LOCATED ON THE LOBBY LEVEL.

5:00 - 5:30 p.m.
New Partner Reception (New DA Partners & Foundation Subscribers Only) [Capitol]

New DA Partners are invited to join the DA Board of Directors and Membership Committee for a cocktail and an orientation to their first DA conference.
5:30 – 7:00 p.m.

Welcome Cocktails (DA Partners & Foundation Subscribers Only) [Capitol]

DA Partners and Foundation Subscribers are invited to join DA Board Chair John Stocks and DA President Gara LaMarche for a special reception welcoming new Partners to the DA and everyone to Washington, DC.

7:00 – 9:30 p.m.

Welcome Dinner: DA Partner Forum #1
(DA Partners & Foundation Subscribers Only) [Oriental]

This is our first time to gather and talk since the cataclysm of Election Day. Democracy Alliance President Gara LaMarche will first provide opening remarks and then facilitate a discussion about what happened and what we need to do to go forward with four of the most thoughtful leaders of the progressive community: Green for All Founder Van Jones, SEIU International President and DA Board Vice Chair Mary Kay Henry, Center for Community Change President Deepak Bhargava, and Demos President Heather McGhee. There will be plenty of time for table conversations among Partners, and each table will have a Partner facilitator who will continue that role in the morning.

9:30 – 11:00 p.m.

DA After Hours: The Freedom to Marry Film Screening [Gallery]

Join Freedom to Marry Founder Evan Wolfson who is widely considered the architect of the movement that led to a nationwide victory at the U.S. Supreme Court in 2015 affirming marriage rights for gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgendered Americans, and filmmaker Eddie Rosenstein for a screening of The Freedom to Marry. This is an emotional, behind-the-scenes view of the successful organizing and legal strategy that changed a community and a nation.

9:30 – 11:30 p.m.

Late Night Networking [Lobby Bar]
The 2016 election has upended much of what we thought we knew about American politics. It has shown a roiling discontent with the political establishment, and there is ferment in the air. Forces of reaction, caution, and progress will joust for power in the coming period. This caucus spotlights work by 350 Action, CPD Action, CWA, Demos Action, MoveOn.org, People's Action, PICO Action, Wellstone Action, and Working Families Party, to intervene in national and state politics beginning early in 2017. The goal: shift the terms of debate and build electoral capacity/candidate pipelines for 2018 and 2020.
MONDAY

8:00 - 9:00 a.m. Partner-Organized Caucus Meetings Cont.

Climate + Equity: Accomplishments and Unfinished Business [Grand C]
Hosted by the Solutions Project, Farhad Ebrahimi, the Surdna Foundation, John Hunting, and NextGen Climate

The impacts of climate change are ever more real and communities on the frontlines are bearing the brunt of their force, creating a chasm between the solutions and those who need them the most. This caucus will feature a discussion with People's Action Senior Strategist Jordan Estevao, and New Florida Majority, an affiliate of the Center for Popular Democracy, Executive Director Gihan Perara that will address climate change policy and politics, along with the role that equity plays in developing solutions.

Innovation Showcase: Technology, Media, and Movement Building [Hillwood]
Hosted by Voqal, Faye and Sandor Straus, Ken Grossinger, the National Education Association, and Wayne Jordan and Quinn Delaney

How did the media fail us? Did any of the data matter? What can we learn from the election and what opportunities does this create moving forward? Never has the need to do things differently been clearer. Join us for a discussion on the role that innovative technology and alternative forms of media can – and should – play in cultivating dynamic citizen engagement and strengthening the progressive movement, led by experts in the space including New Media Ventures Director Christie George, Citizen Engagement Lab Chief Strategy Officer Robin Beck, Vote.org Founder Debra Cleaver, MPower Change Executive Director Linda Sarsour, Owlized Founder Aaron Selverston, and Buycott Founder Ivan Pardo.

9:15 - 11:30 a.m.
DA Partner Forum #2 (DA Partners & Foundation Subscribers Only) [Oriental]

We would typically do a business update here, with a report from the DA Board, and have an open mic for DA Partner announcements, and we'll still do a little of each. But most of our time will be devoted to a small group of Partner discussions continuing on the theme from the night before. We'll leave plenty of time for report-backs and general conversations as a whole community, and the results of these exchanges will inform the review of the DA's strategies going forward.

11:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.

Opening remarks by Democracy Alliance Board Chair John Stocks and remarks by Senator Elizabeth Warren

This session will explore not just the wins and losses up and down the ballot, but provide an analysis of voter turnout, the breadth of field efforts across the states to register, educate, and turn out voters, as well as an initial snapshot of what drove voter choices. While results and deeper analysis will take place over the next several months, DA Partners will hear from leaders in the progressive movement about what we know now and what we need to know more about. In a highly interactive session, Partners will be encouraged to share any lessons learned in the states this cycle.

Democracy Alliance Executive Vice President Kim Anderson will facilitate a discussion with Catalist Chief Executive Officer Laura Quinn, America Votes President Greg Speed, State Voices Executive Director Roger Vann, Ballot Initiative Strategy Center Executive Director Justine Sarver, and Lake Research President Celinda Lake.

Finally, we'll launch the Call to Action for the Democracy Alliance and Committee on States sponsored Donor Summit in March to focus on our path forward for 2017 - 2018 and beyond.
Next Generation Engagement in 2016 and Beyond [Oriental A]

Hosted by Ian Simmons, the Brico Fund, Paul Egerman, SEIU, and the Wallace Global Fund

Engaging Millennials and Generation Z is a progressive priority and critical to our democracy’s long term health. Join DA Partner and Youth Engagement Fund Chair Ian Simmons, Youth Engagement Fund Director Austin Belali, NextGen Climate Vice President Heather Hargreaves, Grassroots Solutions Managing Principal Anne Johnson, and EMILY’s List Executive Director Denise Feriozzi for a conversation about 2016 lessons learned, next-generation voting rights, race and discrimination, movement-based engagement, and improving best practices for 2018 and beyond.

Combatting the Massive Threats from Trump and Congress in 2017 [Oriental B]

Hosted by Lee and Amy Fikes, David Friedman, Jim Gollin, Vin Ryan, Joan Huffer, and Roger Milliken

The biggest changes in domestic policy usually come in a new president’s first year, and now, not only is the Affordable Care Act endangered, but the safety net itself faces its gravest threat in half a century. This caucus will examine the policy landscape from health and poverty to immigration and taxes — and how to fight back. Center for Community Change Executive Director Deepak Bhargava and Center on Budget and Policy Priorities President Bob Greenstein will lead a strategic discussion that will explore actions needed in DC and around the country.

Toward Becoming a Progressive, Not Just Blue State [Hillwood]

Hosted by Charles and Fran Rodgers, Arnold Hiatt, Bob Bowditch, Kate Villers, and the Solidago Foundation

Join the caucus hosts for the latest developments in a series of national discussions aimed at how blue cities and states can become the battleground for forging a bolder progressive national movement. Attendees will explore opportunities to align and think big about expanding our strategies to avoid the trap of fostering moderate blue states.

The Working Class Vote [Oriental C]

Hosted by AFSCME, AFL-CIO, Patricia Bauman, Amalgamated Bank, and Anne Bartley

The working-class vote was a high-visibility challenge in 2016, and is likely to be so again in 2018. Progressives engaged this challenge aggressively, and learned a lot from the experience. Working America Executive Director Karen Nussbaum, Greenberg Quinlan Rosner Research Chairman and CEO Stan Greenberg, and Congressional Progressive Caucus Co-Chair Keith Ellison, and others will share what was learned and how that should impact our strategy going forward.
3:00 - 4:15 p.m.

Women & the 2016 Election: Milestones, Misogyny, & Mapping a Path Forward [Grand] Opening remarks by Democracy Alliance Board Member Fran Rodgers.

Most of us thought that 2016 would be a major milestone year for women – the first woman elected president, more progressive women elected to the U.S. Senate, state legislatures, and other key positions across the nation. There were some gains, and many policy issues that have a meaningful effect on women’s lives – paid leave, early childhood care and education – have political prominence and are increasingly becoming framed as core strategies not just for increasing women’s economic security but for building a strong and inclusive economy. But the election of Donald Trump puts many of those gains in question, and the many disturbing and blatant expressions of misogyny expressed throughout the campaign, and the Right’s continued assault on women – especially their reproductive health – demonstrates that sexism is still very much manifest in our country.

In this session, Voto Latino President Maria Teresa Kumar will lead a panel of experts including EMILY’s List President Stephanie Schriock, National Women’s Law Center Senior Vice President for Programs Fatima Goss Graves, and U.S. Senator Kirstin Gillibrand in a compelling examination of the advances we’ve made, the backlash we face, and the political, economic, and cultural strategies we must pursue in order to achieve gender equity.

4:15 – 5:45 p.m.

Trump’s First 100 Days [Grand]

President-elect Donald Trump’s first 100 days plan is a terrifying assault on President Obama’s achievements — and on our progressive vision for an equitable and just nation. And with conservative control of 32 state legislatures and 29 governorships (with net gains of three in each in last week’s election), progressives will face continuing attacks on women, LGBT people, and working people in the 2017 state legislative sessions.

Join Democracy Alliance Senior Vice President Julie Kohler for a conversation with Center on Budget and Policy Priorities President Bob Greenstein, National Immigration Law Center Executive Director Marielena Hincapie, League of Conservation Voters President Gene Karpinski, State Innovation Exchange Executive Director Nick Rathod, National Center for Transgender Equality Executive Director Mara Keisling, and Center for American Progress President Neera Tanden for a conversation about the progressive defense that we must be prepared to fight on health care, immigration, taxes and the economy, climate, LGBT rights, the Supreme Court, and so much more.

At the conclusion of the plenary, we’ve asked Media Matters for America Founder David Brock to talk for a few minutes about what we need to do to hold the press and politicians accountable in the coming Trump Administration.

6:00 – 7:00 p.m.

Optional Activity: Building a Progressive California Towards 2018 and Beyond [Oriental C]

Hosted by Quinn Delaney and Wayne Jordan, Barbara Simons, Faye and Sandor Straus, Rampa Hormel, Lawrence and Suzanne Hess, the Tides Foundation, UFCW, and the JK Irwin Foundation

Hear from the California donor table what happened in 2016 races and initiatives, and plans for progressive outcomes in 2018 state races. Hear recommendations for building much-needed California infrastructure in groups like State Voices, Ballot Initiative Strategy Center, Voices for Progress, and the Center for Popular Democracy.
6:00 - 7:00 p.m.
Optional Activity: The Women Effect Workshop: Our 2017 Call to Action [Hillwood]

Hosted by: Fran Rodgers, Sunita Leeds, Marcy Carsey, Marilyn Clements, and the Rockefeller Family Fund

2017 will be a year for unprecedented opportunity in pursuing political, cultural, and policy changes designed to bring women to true equality. Following the plenary earlier on gender, this workshop will be a roll-up-your-sleeves discussion on a plan for progress in the next year. Featured will be a proposed collaboration to call out sexism and racism when they stand in the way of our important policy goals.

5:00 - 7:00 p.m.
Optional Activity: Update Your Headshot [Freer]

Conference guests are invited to have new head shots taken by the conference photographer. Sign up in advance at the registration desk.

7:00 - 9:00 p.m.
Our Progressive Future Party [Grand Ballroom]

Together with leaders from throughout the progressive movement, we will look to the battles ahead and celebrate the rising stars from this year’s elections.

9:00 - 11:30 p.m.
Late Night Networking [Lobby Bar]

- Prosecutor Races: Turning out Black Voters in the Post-Obama Era [Oriental A]

  Hosted by Chloe Cockburn, Leah Hunt-Hendrix, Amber Mostyn, Communications Workers of America, and Michael Vachon

In the Post-Obama era, outreach to Black voters with a focus on holding prosecutors accountable significantly increases turnout and has especially powerful persuasive effects. Recent testing may show an up-ticket effect of this outreach. Color of Change Executive Director Rashad Robinson, Texas Organizing Project Executive Director Michelle Tremillo, Bloc Ohio leader DaMareo Cooper, and Whitney Tymas, with allies from the Analyst Institute and the Women Donors Network will discuss how Black voters, as a core constituency to progressive change, is influencing and winning prosecutor races with state and national impact. Please also toast Chicago's next prosecutor Kim Foxx at the DA's Our Progressive Future Party on Monday night!
AGENDA

TUESDAY

8:00 - 9:00 a.m. Partner-Organized Caucus Meetings Cont.

The Fight for an Inclusive Economy [Oriental B]
Hosted by Arca Foundation, Wyss Foundation, Nick Hanauer, the American Federation of Teachers, and SEIU

Since its launch one year ago, the Inclusive Economy Fund has invested close to $2.5 million in winning state and local campaigns that build grassroots power, set new standards for working people and their families, and drive momentum toward meaningful state and federal reform. The campaigns, which advance wage and leave policy, financial reform, and greater public investment in early care and education, expose the failures of trickle-down economic theories, and point to a new, inclusive economy as the solution to gender, racial, and economic inequality.

Roosevelt Institute President Felicia Wong will lead a discussion with the grassroots leaders of these game-changing Inclusive Economy campaigns including ISAIAH, a PICO affiliate, Executive Director Doran Schrantz, and LUCHA, a Center for Popular Democracy affiliate, Co-Director Alejandra Gomez. Hear fresh-from-the-field, first-hand reports on the powerful impacts of an inclusive economy debate in this election, and, learn how these campaigns are building a permanent and influential grassroots base of low-income workers, women, and communities of color.

Was the 2016 Election Hacked? Why We Need to Verify the Outcome of the Election [Oriental C]
Hosted by Barbara Simons, Steve Silberstein, Chris Findlater, Donald Sussman, and Elizabeth Simons

We know there was Russian hacking of voter registration databases, as well as key Democratic email systems. The question is: did Russia also hack our election?

We will provide an update on what is currently known about questionable situations, such as possible targeted voter disenfranchisement in Durham, NC, and what needs to be done to try to detect evidence of ballot or voter registration database hacking. Because of 2002 legislation that allocated almost $4 billion to "modernize" our elections, computers are almost universally used, but rarely adequately checked, in our elections. Much of that money was spent on insecure and unreliable paperless touchscreen voting machines before there were any meaningful federal standards or testing. Statewide databases of registered voters also have been purchased, again with no federal oversight, standards, or testing. Most risky of all, 31 states allow insecure internet voting for overseas military and civilians. This caucus will discuss the security threats to these systems, the lack of relevant laws, and how to make future elections secure and "evidence based."
Moving Forward: The Heart of the Resistance [Grand]

The Trump campaign deliberately stoked racial, ethnic, and xenophobic anxieties and hatred, which a Trump presidency will only further exploit. The communities that will likely face the brunt of these attacks are in many ways the heart of our resistance to the Trump administration. "Intersectional" organizing strategies have given us some of our biggest victories to date, and those strategies will surely be our best weapons for fighting back.

We'll first get an introduction to these strategies from African American Policy Forum Co-Founder and Executive Director Kimberlé Crenshaw.

Then, in a town hall style discussion moderated by Perception Institute Executive Director Alexis McGill Johnson, we'll engage with activists, scholars, journalists, faith leaders, and one another to explore ideas for moving forward.

A national majority of voters cast their ballots against hatred and bigotry and progressive ideas are winning. Progressive ballot measures carried in most places and communities are deepening their alliances across issues and identities. In this discussion, we will explore what it means to use an "intersectional" approach for active resistance and areas where we can still make advances. Our investment in the states and marginalized communities is now more critical than ever to hold conservatives accountable, keep the progressive community united, and bring the working class together again.

SPECIAL GUESTS PARTICIPATING IN THIS DISCUSSION

ReFund America Project Director & Roosevelt Institute Fellow Seqio Bhatti

Three Points Strategy Founder Jessica Byrd

DA Board Member and Chorus Foundation Founder and Chair Faridah Ebrahim

A Conversation with George Soros [Grand]
The conference will come to a close with a perspective from DA Founding Partner George Soros, who has lived through Nazism and Communism, and has devoted his foundations to protecting the kinds of open societies around the world that are now threatened in the United States itself, and who has global perspective important for us all to hear.

11:15 - 11:30 a.m.
Closing Remarks by DA President Gara LaMarche [Grand]

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 15
(Post-Conference Optional Activities)

12:00 - 7:00 p.m.
Advocacy Days [Hillwood]
DA Partners are invited to join Voices for Progress for “Advocacy Days,” a series of small-group meetings with U.S. Senators and U.S. House Leadership to advocate on behalf of a variety of progressive policy priorities. These include opposing Republican demands to roll back rules on climate change, overtime protections, campaign finance reform, and more; encouraging Democratic members to co-sponsor legislation aimed at reducing the influence of big money in politics; and other legislation during the first 100 days of the new Administration. Issue briefings will be provided prior to any meeting with members of Congress.

For more information or to RSVP, contact Voices for Progress National Director Sarah Cotton at (202) 499-5254 or sarah@voicesforprogress.org.
12:00 – 1:30 p.m.
A Celebration of Major Economic Justice Victories! [Capitol]

Sponsored by Center for Popular Democracy and State Innovation Exchange (SIX)

Hosted by the Democracy Alliance Inclusive Economy Fund, Women Effect Fund, the Fairness Project, Local Progress, Voqal Fund, Open Society Policy Center, Ballot Initiative Strategy Center, and National Employment Law Project

All DA Partners are invited to join the host organizations and state and local leaders who ran and won some of this year’s most significant economic justice campaigns. From breakthroughs in fair scheduling to the momentous progress on paid sick days and the historic gains towards higher wages, help us celebrate this year’s victories and look to the future. This event will feature leading economic justice campaigners from ballot initiative and legislative campaigns that were a hallmark of the 2016 election cycle, as well as other state and national economic justice leaders. Light lunch and refreshments will be available at this event.

A LETTER FROM JULIE KOHLER

The 2016 Election was one of the most shocking and disturbing in recent history. With a Republican President-elect spewing unprecedented levels of racism, xenophobia, and misogyny and declaring contempt for our democracy itself, many of us are asking not just whether our progressive values will ever again prevail, but whether our American values will endure.

We must - and will - take stock after this devastating loss, ask hard questions about our assumptions and strategies, and develop new plans. Yet we must also remember that there is progressive infrastructure on which to build, that our game is - and has always been - a long one, and that the pillars of our 2020 Vision Portfolio remain as relevant today as they were last week.

Progressive organizations, including those the DA's 2020 Vision portfolio, will be re-examining their own work in the context of this dramatically changed landscape. OWhile a critical eye is needed, we must also give organizations the credit they deserve for the tremendous work they did this cycle, targeting, registering, and mobilizing voters and organizing citizens to get involved in our democracy - not just by voting but by taking action on issues that matter to their lives (some of which provided the few bright spots on an overwhelmingly bleak Election Night). Although winning elections is critical, the ultimate measure of our success is our ability to help create a more just and equitable nation, one in which all workers earn a livable wage; all families can secure affordable, high-quality child care and access higher education for their children; all communities can live without fear of police violence, mass incarceration, and state-sanctioned discrimination; and all people have a healthy environment in which to live, learn, and work. Accomplishing these and many other aligned goals requires us to not only win elections, but to advance policy and build power in a way that realigns complex economic and democratic systems that currently serve the interests of a privileged few.

Certainly, these goals seem more elusive now. But we must not lose sight of what has been accomplished, the base we have to build upon as we ask tough questions and double down to fight for the nation that we believe in.

The DA's 2020 Vision Framework articulates a set of ambitious goals that we seek to achieve over the next four years through aligned and leveraged funding. And our 2020 Vision Investment Portfolio is the DA's recommendation of the organizations and efforts that are best poised to help us achieve that vision.

Since the DA's founding, staff have provided Partners with regular updates on organizations included in our investment portfolios - summarizing the organizations' work and their performance towards mutually agreed upon goals and benchmarks. The intent of this work has been to give Partners the information they need to make sound investment decisions.
With the adoption of the 2020 Vision Investment Portfolio and the feedback we heard from Partners, we decided that the time had come to adapt our approach to progress monitoring. Rather than describing and assessing each organization’s individual work, we now seek to tell a larger story, explaining the ways that recommended organizations are collectively moving the needle towards ambitious, movement-wide goals.

The dashboard on page 8 provides a topline synopsis of the portfolio’s progress over the last year towards the DA’s 2020 Vision goals. In the sections that follow, we provide some additional examples of how the DA’s recommended organizations have worked together to build an inclusive economy, a fair democracy, a safe and sustainable planet and, ultimately, a more just and equitable nation. Achieving these goals requires sustained investment in progressive infrastructure at the national and state levels, as well as in the new and innovative ideas and efforts that our movement to fill gaps, address emerging needs, and outpace the Right.

What follows is not an analysis of our progressive movement’s capacities, where we are strong and weak, or how we may need to adapt those capacities to an environment in which everything that we believe in will be under assault. Rather, this document provides a synopsis of our APOs’ accomplishments, an important first step in leading us to the strategy conversations that we will soon be having. As we take stock, it is imperative that we ground our analysis in an accurate understanding of the work that organizations are already doing - and are poised to undertake, going forward.

As always, members of the DA’s Strategy and Planning Team and the DA 2020 State Fund Directors (Scott Anderson, Austin Belali, Shehn Datta, Cietta Kiandoli, Roger Kim, Dave Montez, Jahmila Roberts, Frank Smith, Katherine Storch, and I) are available to answer more detailed questions that DA Partners may have about APOs and the DA’s 2020 State Funds, for which we have prepared a separate set of summaries, beginning on page 10.

Sincerely,

Julie Kohler
Senior Vice President, Strategy and Planning
We will soon know more about the role that the Right’s multi-cycle attack on voting rights played in last Tuesday’s election outcome. But thanks to the efforts of many DA Aligned Partner Organizations (APOs), 2016 was the year that the tide began to turn. The Advancement Project and Brennan Center for Justice, aided by Catalyst voter registration data, played important roles in litigation efforts that struck down voter suppression laws in North Carolina, Texas, and Wisconsin, and Advancement provided communications support to the Moral Mondays movement in North Carolina, which educated the public about the law’s harmful effects and built grassroots momentum for change. Demos successfully litigated Ohio’s illegal purge of hundreds of thousands of eligible voters from the rolls and helped millions of Americans register to vote by ensuring state compliance with the National Voter Registration Act (NVRA). American Constitution Society (ACS) made voting rights a prominent priority for their progressive legal network, training more than 700 lawyers, expert witnesses, judges, and law school students over the past three years on litigating voting rights cases and co-creating (with Campaign Legal Center) the first voting rights law school clinic at Georgetown University. And Media Matters continued to call out prominent media outlets and personalities for their failure to highlight the discriminatory impact of voter ID laws or to debunk falsehoods about so-called voter fraud.

Equally importantly, APOs helped to advance proactive legislation that made voting easier. Thanks to Advancement, Brennan, the Center for Popular Democracy (CPD), and the State Information Exchange (SIX), important strides were made to restore voting rights to previously incarcerated citizens in Maryland and Virginia. Brennan, the Center for American Progress (CAP), CPD, SIX, and State Voices (SV) played key roles in the enactment of automatic voter registration (AVR) in six states over the last two years and in analyzing the impact of AVR in Oregon, the first state to enact AVR. SIX was instrumental in passing online voter registration in four states, while America Votes (AV) played an important role in guiding the implementation of online voter registration in Florida. The DA’s Democracy Fund (see page 14) provided aligned support for in-state organizations that are leading on the ground, preparing for future AVR and rights restoration legislative and ballot campaigns in Arizona, Florida, New Mexico, and Virginia.

The Victory 2021 Plan followed-up their support for 2015’s public financing ballot victories in Maine and Seattle, WA with financial and programmatic support for new statewide initiatives in Washington and South Dakota, the latter of which past on election day, while the Piper Fund supported a communications hub for the money in politics field and municipal small donor public financing ballot measures in Howard County, MD and Berkeley, CA, both of which prevailed. Issue One successfully recruited a politically diverse coalition of more than 150 former senators, governors, and representatives to join their ReFormers Caucus, which works to build consensus around a common sense legislative agenda, and executed a high-profile media campaign to build awareness of their work.

Victory 2021 supported other money in politics reforms, including attempts to call on President Obama to issue an executive order requiring federal contractors to disclose their political spending, securing numerous editorials and opinion pieces on the topic, including an editorial from The New York Times. Brennan and Demos, in conjunction with Campaign Legal Center and Open Society Foundations, further documented the negative impacts of Citizens United and related cases and proposed transformational jurisprudential approaches the courts could adopt to reduce the role of money and restore public confidence in our electoral system. And through their Inclusive Democracy Project, Demos worked to shift the narrative around money in politics from corruption towards inequality, highlighting the way big money impedes racial justice and providing technical assistance and support so that grassroots racial justice organizations around the country (including CPD, People's Action, PICO National Network, and Working Families' affiliates) are equipped to join and lead money in politics campaigns in communities of color.

With a Supreme Court vacancy, 2016 was also the year that efforts to build a progressive judiciary took on heightened levels of significance. Despite unprecedented Republican obstructionism, DA APOs (ACS, Constitutional Accountability Center (CAC), and Organizing for Action (OFA)) were at the forefront of the campaign to get President Obama's nominee, Judge Merrick Garland, a fair hearing in the Senate, leading #DoYourJob advocacy efforts and grassroots organizing campaigns, particularly in states where Republican Senators faced highly competitive re-election campaigns. And Media Matters was the first to expose - and debunk - smears on Judge Garland's record on important progressive issues like gun safety.

In a closely divided Supreme Court, CAC was extraordinarily successful convincing swing Justices from the Right to reach progressive results rooted in the Constitution's text and history, earning the highest cumulative success rate this term. And ACS and CAC continued to shine a spotlight on the lower court vacancies that cause justice to be delayed or denied and to spur action to address the judicial vacancy crisis. This community must quickly decide how to pivot from offense to defense and develop new strategies for ensuring that our courts remain a force for protecting the principles of our Constitution and improving the lives of all people.

ACS and Brennan produced high-quality scholarship on state courts, highlighting how money in state court elections is negatively affecting judicial decision making and bringing new attention to - and proposing new solutions to - the lack of women and people of color on state supreme court benches. The Piper Fund’s Judicial Independence Project supported statewide coalitions designed to protect merit selection for judges in Alaska and Kansas, and through convenings, training, and consulting with state-based coalitions, Wellstone Action built the organizing and strategic capacity of the fair courts field.

As a result of the work of many DA APOs, 2016 was the year that "Middle Out" economics hit the mainstream, earning a mention from Secretary Clinton in a presidential debate. After years of fending off Republican assaults on working people, 2016 was also a year in which progressives were able to win some concrete victories for low-wage workers, as a result of increasingly well aligned policy development work and state and local organizing.

The Economic Policy Institute (EPI), National Employment Law Center (NELP), CAP, and Center for Budget and Policy Priorities (CBPP) helped influence the Department of Labor’s (DOL) decision to update the federal overtime regulations, increasing the salary threshold and extending overtime protections to up to 12.5 million American workers. NELP also helped to win other important worker protections, defending and guiding implementation of another DOL rule extending minimum wage/overtime pay rights to 2 million home care workers and providing technical support for passage of new fair chance hiring procedures in 12 states, benefiting approximately 50 million people with criminal records. And the Roosevelt Institute began outlining a roadmap of a 21st century social contract that will increase workers' economic security, with a particular eye towards emerging economic trends and the changing nature of work.
Building on minimum wage victories in cities like Los Angeles, CA, New York, NY, San Francisco, CA, and Seattle, WA, CPD, People's Action, and PICO took the fight for higher wages statewide, leading ambitious minimum wage campaigns in Arizona, Colorado, Maine, and Washington (all of which prevailed on November 8th), with the Ballot Initiative Strategy Center (BISC) providing critical guidance and technical assistance to state organizations. Organizing networks like CPD and Working America won paid sick leave and fair scheduling victories in cities like Minneapolis, MN, while Working Families helped secure municipal and state-wide paid sick leave victories in Maryland, New Jersey, Oregon, and Vermont.

CAP and EPI helped make early care and education a prominent presidential campaign issue, with the Clinton campaign adopting EPI's recommendation to cap child care expenses at 10 percent of family income, and generated significant media coverage over new research that highlighted the extraordinary cost of child care compared to other family expenses. Demos issued a new early care and education report that is serving as an important tool for advocates working to advance affordable, high quality solutions. And Center for Community Change (CCC), CPD, PICO, and People's Action launched new local campaigns designed to unite the interests of low-wage child care workers and families and find innovative ways to secure new public investment in high-quality early care and education and convened/coordinated those efforts through a new Child Care and Early Learning Action Hub. Although President-Elect Trump's child care proposal was problematic on many levels, including its focus only on biological mothers and disproportionate benefit to middle- and upper-income families, the fact that a Republican candidate felt compelled to address the issue is a testament to the degree that organizations have been able to affect the policy dialogue.

Roosevelt Institute's economic policy work had significant influence on the national economic debate, particularly around financialization. The Clinton campaign adopted Roosevelt's framing on the need to "rewrite the rules" of capitalism, and a recent Roosevelt report puts the first-ever price tag on the financial services industry's costs to the economy (a staggering $13 to $23 trillion), over and above what it provides. Thorough the FedUp campaign, CPD, EPI, MMFA, and others helped convince the Federal Reserve Bank to take cautious approach to raising interest rates. And Americans for Financial Reform (AFR) and allies, including Color of Change, People's Action, PICO, and OFA won a new Consumer Financial Protection Bureau rule protecting struggling families from payday lenders.

Demos continued to lead the way on debt-free higher education, with Secretary Clinton's proposal closely mirroring their recommendation for a state-federal partnership, while CBPP secured major anti-poverty and anti-austerity victories. Thanks to their successful EITC and Child Tax Credit advocacy, low- and modest-income working families will receive an additional $15 billion annually in new income. And over the last three years, CBPP's State Priorities Partnership, a network of 42 progressive state-level advocacy organizations, helped to generate $6 billion in new state revenues in 13 states and preserved an additional $5 billion in an additional eight by winning campaigns against tax cuts.

The DA's Inclusive Economy Fund (see page 16) is aligning investment closely with much of this work, driving more resources to the grassroots organizations in the states that are leading these "breakthrough" campaigns on minimum wage/paid leave, early care and education, and financial reform. The campaigns in which we invested had a very good "win," rate, showing that our inclusive economics framing and policies resonate with the majority of Americans.

There is no sugarcoating what the looming Trump presidency and Congress under the control of the fossil fuel industry means for climate change and the environment. Trump will be the only world leader to deny the science of climate change and he intends to undo important progress made during the Obama Administration. We face a difficult path forward, but the work we've done to build the political power and capacity of the climate and environmental movement will be vital to stopping any attempts to roll back our progress. The introduction of Clean Power Plan (CPP) in August 2015 is the Administration’s most sweeping climate policy and it is being vigorously defended. In October, thanks to leadership of National Resources Defense Council (NRDC) and others, 170 countries agreed to a landmark deal to phase down the use of hydrofluorocarbons (HFCs), a powerful climate-warming chemical. And less than a year after the Paris Climate Conference, the international climate agreement has been ratified and entered into force on November 4. The global momentum to address climate change is accelerating with the growing support of global leaders, major businesses, and cities and nations around the world.

Many DA APOs are involved in these successes and are actively working to protect the CPP against a legal challenge and accelerate climate momentum in the United States. CAC filed a brief in the case, and ACS has helped to advance expert analysis on litigation over CPP. CAP Action continues to coordinate op-eds and statements from their experts and extensive work around CPP litigation with the Climate Action Coalition to elevate their work within climate discussions. And through trainings, direct actions, and testimonies, national organizing networks like People’s Action are amplifying the voices of low income communities, people of color, and displaced workers within the state implementation plans.

The League of Conservation Voters (LCV) and its affiliates invested over $40 million in the 2016 elections, more than any cycle in its history. GiveGreen, a joint effort between the LCV Action Fund and NRDC Action Fund PAC, raised over $8 million for pro-climate candidates in key races up and down the ballot, including at least $400,000 each for three top priority candidates, to ensure that their largest pocket of support came from environmental donors. Key U.S. Senate victories include Colorado, Illinois, and Nevada. AV, Catalyst, and others supported climate champions at every level of the ballot, while Media Matters pushed back vigorously on the fossil fuel industry and exposed the ways that they obstruct and impede meaningful action on the issue. Over the past year, Media Matters has shined a light on a deceptive Koch-backed Americans for Prosperity op-ed campaign against the CPP and aggressively pushed media markets to cover Exxon’s climate deception.

Several DA APOs are developing the policy ideas that can guide future policy work in the states. CCC, Demos, and Roosevelt are all doing work to deepen policies at intersection of climate and jobs/the economy, and racial justice, while organizing networks like CCC, CPD, and PICO are fighting to eliminate racial disparities in access to clean air and water, create good clean energy jobs in low-income communities, and stop fossil fuel companies from using their dirty energy profits to undermine democracy. CAP is developing the next generation of policies that can slow the causes and impacts of climate change, including “proxy” carbon pricing and rules around methane emissions. And in advance of the 2017 legislative session, SIX is providing a range of policy and communication materials for state legislators on distributed clean energy. DA APOs are successfully advancing and defending critical policies and supporting climate champions in the face of fierce and well-funded rightwing opposition. Together with the DA’s Climate Fund, (see page 12), our progressive community is strategically expanding work on climate change and growing the power of the climate movement to accelerate climate action.

TOOLS AND INNOVATION

A core principle of the DA’s investment strategy since its founding is that progressive “tools and utilities” are the root of what’s needed in order to support progressive change. Many of the organizations in the 2020 Vision portfolio play such roles, providing core capacities around data, messaging and communications, convening organizations around shared strategies, training operatives and organizers, and leading innovation that the entire progressive movement relies upon to make political and policy gains - on our three priority issues and many more.

AV, for example, led and coordinated their largest-ever voter mobilization program in 2016, targeting nearly 16 million voters across nine battleground states, with specific goals for reaching New American Majority (NAM) voters. They also led and coordinated an innovative testing program to determine the best practices for reducing “roll off” voters in down ballot races - a particularly important strategy for making progressive gains in state legislatures, since many state legislative races are won by the slimmest of margins. SV organized an unprecedented planning process for 2016 voter registration, aligning more than 60 organizations around a common methodology and standards. Catalyst, through their Voter Choice History (VCH) models, was able to retroactively model named-candidate choice for individual voters for elections from 2008 to 2015, providing organizations with a host of new insights about ticket splitting, roll-off, and other behaviors that have been impossible to pinpoint in the past. Their other innovations, including new race and ethnicity models and voter registration integrations, give subscribing organizations new tools for targeting voters more effectively and tracking their program results more accurately. All of this work made the funding provided through DA’s New American Majority Funds (see page 18) and the State Engagement Initiative (SEI), our partnership with Committee on States (see page 26) more strategic and aligned.

Wellstone Action continued to play an important capacity building role for the field, training over 2,000 people from over 100 organizations in 25 states on all aspects of campaign work, with a focus on the New American Majority. For example, through a partnership with Color of Change, Black PAC, and SEIU, Wellstone conducted trainings focused on campaign management and data for Black organizers and operatives who are building political power in Black communities in 2016 and beyond. SIX, Public Leadership Institute (PLI), and CPD’s Local Progress provided critical training to state and local elected officials, educating them on policy, messaging, and model legislation. ProgressNow continued to serve as a PR shop for the progressive movement by crafting earned media campaigns, creating collateral for digital outreach campaigns, and providing training to fellow progressive activists. And in collaboration with 30 state and national allies, BISC developed a multi-cycle plan for proactive ballot measures in 11 states, equipping progressives to maximize opportunities to use ballot initiatives strategically to advance our agenda.

Several DA APOs played an important role in developing new innovations that fill gaps, particularly finding new ways to use media and technology to advance our goals and empower key progressive constituencies, particularly the New American Majority. Wellstone Action folded in the programs of the New Organizing Institute to their operations and began developing the next generation of progressive data and digital practitioners. New Media Ventures (NMV) catalyzed $2.5M to 11 start-up media and political technology companies and organizations this year, helping seed and support new innovation for helping Asian/Pacific Islander voters gain access to ballots and voting information (VoterVox), support worker organizing (OUR Walmart), provide migrant workers with information about potential employers (Contratados), and organize corporate and political advocacy strategies around paid family leave (PL+US). Similarly, Citizen Engagement Lab (CEL) continued to incubate and provide tools, analysis, and strategy to a number of new and innovative organizations and efforts, including MPower Change, the first U.S. Muslim organizing and storytelling platform, 18Millionrising, the leading digital campaign hub for Asian American Pacific Islanders (and creators of VoterVox), and Presente, the largest online Latino advocacy group. CEL’s alumni organizations - efforts that CEL incubated in their start-up phase and helped spin out to separate organizations - is an impressive list, including Color of Change and UltraViolet, an online community of 1 million members mobilized to fight sexism and expand women’s rights, which began operating as a separate organization at the beginning of the year.

Color of Change launched OrganizeFor, an online distributional organizing platform that provides ordinary people who are witnessing injustice with an easy and effective way to get involved, build awareness, and create momentum for grassroots campaigns, as well as to leverage deeper support for national campaigns, such as Black Lives Matter, that already have traction. Color of Change also made tremendous strides into Hollywood, increasing awareness and influencing content. In a short time, they saw some high-profile early successes, shaping a much-credited episode of Black-ish that addressed police brutality and embedding criminal justice issues into the storyline of BET’s Being Mary Jane. CEL’s Culture Lab is similarly focused on innovations to affect broader cultural change, providing tools, analysis, and strategy to dozens of advocacy organizations that want to better leverage popular culture in their work.
The scope of work that the DA's investment portfolio achieved in 2016 was impressive, as were the concrete accomplishments, victories, and numerous examples of how organizations aligned their work for greater impact. But there were also setbacks. Progressive state and local initiatives on campaign finance reform and minimum wage failed to qualify for the ballot in Albuquerque, NM, Arizona, and Miami-Dade, FL, and the public financing ballot initiative failed in Washington State. Despite the best efforts of many APOs and their allies, Republican obstructionists in the Senate remained resolute, refusing to give Judge Garland the fair hearing that he is due, setting us up for an epic battle over President-Elect Trump's nominee. Given conservative dominance in the states, progressives spent much of 2016 fending off - sometimes unsuccessfully - an array of bad legislation. There was a steep increase in anti-LGBT legislation in 2016 (particularly so-called "religious freedom" and anti-transgender bills), with more than 100 bills being introduced in state legislatures in the first half of the year. Fourteen states enacted 30 new laws making it harder for women to access abortion services. Lethal police violence against Black Americans continued unabated, with little accountability for those responsible. And the standoff at the Standing Rock Reservation in North Dakota has shone a spotlight not only on the serious environmental issues posed by the Dakota Pipeline but on our nation's longstanding mistreatment of Native Americans.

At the conference, we will begin the process of examining what more or different we should have done - and need to do - if we are to be successful in helping elect progressive candidates, up and down the ballot, and positioning us for a fairer redistricting process post-2020. And we will, of course, begin to strategize about the defensive work that we must do to protect the policy gains that were made over the course of the Obama Administration. Although the challenges are daunting, we must also not shy away from doubling down on strategies that worked, including strategically pursuing ambitious proactive policy reforms on topics from minimum wage to marijuana policy to automatic voter registration, legislatively and through the ballot.

There is much more we must do, if we are ever to achieve the ambitious goals that the 2020 Vision envisions. Although we are battered and bruised from this election, we must quickly gear up for 2017 and 2018. Conventional wisdom is that progressives face a challenging map in 2018, when 25 Democratic Senators, 8 Republican Senators, and 36 governors are up for election, and progressives have typically needed to work hard to rally their base, particularly many New American Majority voters that have historically dropped off in mid-year elections. It is impossible to know at this point how two years of a Trump presidency may alter this calculation, but we must do all that we can to reverse the conservative tide, and our strategy of investing in the people and places that can drive a progressive agenda - the New American Majority and the states - remains as relevant as ever.

Although the 2020 Vision Investment Portfolio is comprised of many strong organizations, much of the progressive infrastructure remains underfunded, and many recommended organizations continue to struggle to grow and diversify their funding sources. The vast majority of organizations in the DA's portfolio have stable budgets and sound financial practices, but many remain highly reliant on one type of income (e.g., foundation grants, labor). As we look ahead to legislative and policy fights in 2017, 2018 and 2020 elections, and redistricting that follows, the DA must work harder than ever to take our unique collaborative funding model to the next level and inspire and leverage even greater levels of investment. It has never been more true to say that future of our nation depends on it.

- Color of Change and other BCEF grantees helped defeat high-profile targets, like Cook County State's Attorney Anita Alvarez, and elect prosecutors committed to fixing a broken criminal justice system.

- YEF helped develop new tools pinpointing where young people are disproportionately likely to affect election outcomes and close racial disparities in civic participation.

- LEF commissioned research providing new insights on effective messaging to Latino voters.

*As of October 31, 2016

 See Appendix A for DA's Rubrics for APOs
Advancing Voting Rights: Advancement, AV, Brennan, CAP, CPD, SiX, and SV helped advance voter registration modernization in 10+ states. With Catalyst data, Advancement and Brennan litigation helped strike down voter suppression laws struck in NC, TX, and WI.

Money in politics: Victory 2021 helps public financing ballot measures advance in MO, SD, and WA; Demos's Inclusive Democracy Project engaged racial justice organizations in state-based campaigns.

Judiciary: CAC, ACS, OFA, and MMFA pressured Senate Republicans to fill vacant Supreme Court seat; ACS and Brennan research highlighted how money in state court elections affects judicial decision making and lack of diversity on the bench.

Wages and Worker Protections: EPI, NELP, CAP, CBPP influenced the Department of Labor's overtime rule; CPD, People's Action, and PICO led minimum wage ballot campaigns in four states; CAP, EPI, and Demos made early care and education a prominent presidential campaign issue, with CCC, CPD, PICO, and People's Action leading local campaigns for greater public investment.

Financial, Regulatory, and Structural reform: Clinton campaign adopted Roosevelt's framing on "rewriting the rules" of capitalism; CPD, EPI, MMFA, and others helped convince the Fed to be cautious on interest rates; AFR, Color of Change, People's Action, PICO, and OFA won new CFPB rule protecting struggling families from payday lenders.

Elect Climate Champions: GiveGreen raised $8M to elect climate champions and build political power for the climate movement. America Votes, Catalyst and others supported climate champions at every level of the ballot.

Build Power and Support: Organizing networks, like CPD and PICO, organized and amplified voices of the New America Majority on climate, CEL and Media Matters held climate deniers and the media accountable, and Demos and Roosevelt Institute identified new policy and research gaps.

Advance Climate Policies: CAP developed policies to drive deeper cuts to pollution and carbon. People's Action and OFA trained leaders, organized actions, and galvanized public support for the implementation of the Clean Power Plan.
Control of state and local governance has proven to be a successful strategy for conservatives in winning elections and policy that has shifted the playing field. The 2020 Vision framework elevates states and the New American Majority as central to progressive long-term success. These are the places where, and the people with whom, we must build power in order to see progress on our interconnected goals: creating a fair democracy, building an inclusive economy, ensuring a safe and sustainable planet, and fostering a just and equitable nation. States are increasingly the sites of our most important political and policy battles. We need a broad coalition with strong community roots to engage successfully and win.

The DA established the 2020 State Funds, an aligned set of collaborative funds that are making significant investments in 12 strategic states in Spring 2015. Each fund has its own strategy that helps achieve collective goals, and its own Advisory Board that provides resources, expertise, and governance. DA staff carry out the funds’ work and, along with a Coordinating Council comprised of Advisory Board and DA Board representatives, help forge connections and collaborate across issue areas and among and between constituencies. The funds include:

- State Engagement Initiative to support state-based electoral strategies;
- Climate Fund to invest in state and local level advocacy efforts that will build the base of support to address the climate crisis;
- Democracy Fund to invest in proactive voting rights reform campaigns that increase participation and access to voter rolls;
- Inclusive Economy Fund to invest in promising state and local campaigns that set new standards for working people and their families and build toward federal reform; and
- A set of New American Majority Funds (Black Civic Engagement Fund, Latino Engagement Fund, and the Youth Engagement Fund) to build Black, Latino and Millennial political power, organizational capacity, and infrastructure, while centering these communities in the progressive movement. The overall New American Majority Fund seeks to align efforts between and among the funds, where appropriate, and over time, to build out new strategies for other key New American Majority communities – women, LGBT, Asian/Pacific Islanders, and the white working class.
If we're successful in aligning and meeting goals, the 2020 State Funds will help:

- Change the electoral map by working to make targeted gains in state and federal elections with an eye on setting progressives up for more favorable redistricting maps post-2020;
- Build the progressive base by investing in the New American Majority and building permanent capacity and infrastructure in NAM communities;
- Win significant policy gains through strong issue organizing work on climate, economic inequality, and voting rights;
- Build and sustain state infrastructure by engaging new donors and allies, strengthening donor tables, supporting convening and communication hubs, and building field, leadership, and policy capacity.

The 2020 State Funds are focusing their initial investments on the following 12 states:

- Challenge states that are essential to restoring progressive power both at the state and federal level (FL, NC, NM, OH, PA, VA, WI);
- Growth states that are trending in a more progressive direction but are currently out of reach (AZ, GA); and
- Governing states with progressive majorities that can pass exemplary policies that make systemic change in favor of progressives and create momentum for federal reforms (CO, MN, OR).

Each fund is focusing on various subsets of the 12 states, but by having a common set of states in which to focus, we can maximize resources and explore opportunities for alignment. This alignment of funds and strategy only further enhances the goal of building and sustaining permanent state infrastructure and capacity. In a few instances, when there has been a compelling strategic rationale to do so, the funds have funded outside of the 12 priority states, but the bulk of the investment focuses on the 12, so that we can deepen our impact.

The 2020 State Funds build on DA’s investment and experience in administering pooled funds, and the lessons learned on the benefits to utilizing pooled funds including:

- Agile and targeted funding, with the ability to respond quickly and at various support levels.
- Shared intelligence, and vetting of effective organizations for investment.
- Ability to share tools, training, and capacity building assistance with groups.
- Opportunity to collaborate as donors, and leverage resources from multiple sources.
- Increasingly coordinated funding strategies and plans.
- Shared administrative resources such as staffing, technology, and finance.
- Multiple donors can tackle big issues collectively, having greater impact than on their own.
- Groups have less fundraising work, allowing them to focus on programmatic work.

The memos that follow describe each fund’s goals and approach, target states, initial investments, and early/anticipated impact. Since their inception, the 2020 State Funds have approved more than $15.8 million ($7.3 million 501c(3) and $8.6 million in 501c(4)) in support to state-based organizations that are leading efforts to advance a progressive policy agenda, and build a permanent base of progressive power that reflects the New American Majority.
Climate Fund / Climate Action Fund

OPPORTUNITY STATEMENT

Moving a climate policy agenda is fundamentally a political—not a policy—problem. The climate movement lacks sufficient political power, especially at the grassroots, to overcome the fierce opposition of the fossil fuel industry and its ideological allies. Poll after poll shows that communities of the New America Majority are the strongest climate champions, and with a boost in investment of resources, they can be a powerful force to help advance a bold climate agenda in critical states.

FUND GOALS AND APPROACH

The DA's Climate Fund and Climate Action Fund (referred to jointly as “the funds”) invest in organizations building a powerful base with New American Majority communities and leading bold campaigns that address the climate crisis in critical states.

There is enormous support for climate action among Latinos, African Americans, Asian and Pacific Islanders, and Millennials, yet not enough resources go to policy advocacy and organizing efforts in these communities. The funds are playing an important role by filling this gap and catalyzing greater investment into these communities.

By driving investment into organizations to conduct grassroots organizing, community education, legislative advocacy and outreach, and civic engagement in a select number of states, the funds seek to:

- Build and mobilize grassroots support that can advance policy solutions at the local, state, and federal levels that solve the climate crisis and create a sustainable economy;
- Raise the visibility of climate as an election issue and drive a narrative around climate change and economic justice as a mandate for policy change; and
- Build the capacity of place-based organizations working in communities of color that are impacted by the effects of climate change or see climate justice as an essential issue.

A surge in the engagement and leadership of the New American Majority, in coalition with other bases of support, can drive successful advocacy campaigns that overcome the opposition of entrenched interests in critical states.

To provide a more complete picture, this memo reports on the work of both the 501(c)(3) Inclusive Economy Fund and the 501(c)(4) Inclusive Economy Action Fund. The operations of the two organizations are kept separate to the degree required by law.
TARGET STATES AND INITIAL INVESTMENTS

The funds are investing in target states that have:

- The potential to address climate change due to their role in fossil fuel extraction, the Clean Power Plan, and/or are significantly impacted by climate change.
- Established and growing New American Majority communities who will support bold campaigns that address the climate crisis.
- Overlapping priorities with other DA Funds and funders, especially the New American Majority Funds.

Based on these criteria, the funds are investing in Florida, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Virginia. Other states will be explored as funding allows. Our first round of investments are in well-respected, multi-issue organizations that are building their base and power, developing bold climate and clean renewable energy campaigns, and impacting this important election.

ANTICIPATED IMPACT

- In Florida, Florida Institute for Reform and Empowerment, the Florida Immigrant Coalition, and New Florida Majority (NFM) are building a mass base of climate activists and voters, and connecting climate change to issues of economic justice. NFM and Organize Now are knocking on thousands of doors and making climate change and clean energy an issue in the elections.

- In Virginia, Virginia Organizing is growing its organizing in the southwestern coalfields and working with a coalition to rally the governor to support bolder climate action.

New Virginia Majority is connecting climate policies to racial justice in African-American communities, especially in the Hampton Roads area, which has experienced worsening flooding due to sea level rise.

- In Ohio, the Ohio Organizing Collaborative identified hundreds of new climate activists when registering voters and developing a campaign to advance renewable energy in Cleveland. Meanwhile, Stand Up for Ohio is knocking on thousands of doors with information on candidate positions on climate in national and state races.

- In Pennsylvania, One Pennsylvania is fighting a proposed refinery and dirty energy port facility in a low-income African-American community, educating voters on U.S. Senate candidate positions on climate change, and mobilizing them to vote.

- All of the organizations are scaling-up their organizing work, but they still don't have enough organizers to keep up with the number of people who want to be engaged. That's great news, and an early indicator of success. We've leveraged the initial investments from DA Partners into larger resources from new funders for 2017 and 2018, with over $2 million in anticipated outside support.
Democracy Fund / Democracy Action Fund

OPPORTUNITY STATEMENT

Maximizing participation strengthens democracy. And maximizing participation among the New American Majority is the best strategy for developing and electing leaders who share progressive values and will enact policies that advance the DA's 2020 Vision. This is why the Right has been unrelenting in its efforts to systematically deny millions of Americans access to the ballot. In the wake of recent legal and legislative victories, progressives have an opportunity to advance a proactive agenda that allows millions more Americans to have their voices heard.

FUND GOALS AND APPROACH

The premise of the DA's Democracy Fund and Democracy Action Fund (referred to jointly as "the funds") are that the best offense is sometimes just that - a good offense. Rather than fighting for voting rights on the Right's terms, the fund invests in the game-changing reforms that make voting easier. Our early investments have focused on two promising reforms: automatic voter registration and the enfranchisement of millions of American citizens who have lost the right to vote due to a prior criminal conviction.

By driving greater investment into the organizations leading public education, legislative advocacy, and ballot measure campaigns in a select number of states, the fund seeks to:

- Add millions of voters to the rolls;
- Permanently shift the responsibility of voter registration to the government;
- Save money for funders and the state;
- Improve accuracy of voter rolls;
- Dramatically increase the political voice and power of young people, communities of color, women, and low-income citizens; and
- Address one of the manifestations of our criminal justice system's structural racism: the fact that 6 million citizens - and nearly 1 out of every 13 Black Americans - is currently ineligible to vote.

In order to truly transform civic participation in this country, we must continue to innovate - and to invest as much in permanently expanding the electorate through structural reforms as we do registering (and often re-registering) voters each cycle. As the terms of the debate over voting rights shift, the time has come to think and act boldly.

TARGET STATES AND INITIAL INVESTMENTS

- Automatic Voter Registration (AVR):
  In Arizona and New Mexico, the fund has supported One Arizona and the Center for Civic Policy, respectively, to run earned media and legislative advocacy campaigns that lay the groundwork for AVR ballot campaigns. In Virginia, the fund supported New Virginia Majority to advance AVR in Fairfax County, a first step toward statewide adoption. And in Oregon, the fund supported Oregon Motor Voter Coalition to learn more about the Oregon voters who have been automatically registered.

- Rights restoration for formerly incarcerated citizens: In Florida, the fund helped the Florida Rights Restoration Coalition collect the signatures necessary to have their ballot language reviewed by the State Supreme Court – an important first step for a 2018 or 2020 ballot campaign.

ANTICIPATED IMPACT

Although the fund's early investments are already yielding important results, the ultimate impact will be seen in 2017, 2018, and beyond.

- Initial findings from the Oregon Motor Voter Coalition's partnership with the Analyst Institute show that Oregon's New American Majority is benefiting the most from AVR, with young Oregonians and people of color automatically registering at much higher rates. Post-election, we will glean additional important insights, such as who registers through AVR and how they chose to engage in elections, which will guide future civic participation and voter engagement work in Oregon and other states.

- Following their successful effort in Fairfax County, New Virginia Majority is beginning their work to get AVR implemented statewide. The Fairfax County victory has added 18,904 voters to the rolls in one month, up from 10,000 in previous months. Adopting AVR statewide would add tens of thousands of eligible voters to the rolls and dramatically reduce the voter registration burden for subsequent election years, allowing organizations to focus their efforts on GOTV and issue advocacy.

- Similarly, in New Mexico and Arizona, winning ballot campaigns in 2018 would automatically add tens of thousands of voters to the rolls and allow organizations to shift time and resources to other high-impact work.

- Next year, the Florida Rights Restoration Coalition will work to get their initiative qualified for the ballot. If enacted, the initiative would re-enfranchise 1.8 million citizens rendered permanently ineligible to vote due to a prior criminal conviction, permanently transforming the state's electorate.
Inclusive Economy Fund/
Inclusive Economy Action Fund

OPPORTUNITY STATEMENT

Forty years of "trickle down" policies have generated wealth and income inequality so extreme that it threatens our nation's long-term economic health. Eroding labor standards, regressive taxation, and reckless financial deregulation are driving down wages and undermining the middle class, causing 90 percent of Americans to fall further and further behind. No free and open society can endure long-term stagnation and continuously rising inequality. Building a more inclusive economy—one that prioritizes political and economic inclusion—requires re-writing the rules at every level.

FUND GOALS AND APPROACH

The DA's Inclusive Economy Fund and Inclusive Economy Action Fund (referred to jointly as "the funds") seek to build an inclusive economy from the bottom up, investing in the promising state and local campaigns that are setting new standards for working people and their families and building momentum toward federal reform. The funds aim to lift up and debate economic policy choices that expose the lies of conservative economic theories and point to a new, inclusive economy as the solution. The campaigns that the funds support make a meaningful difference in people's financial security by:

- Shifting the public debate in terms of what is possible in both economics and politics, while advancing our inclusive economics narrative; and
- Building the power and long-term advocacy capacity of local, state and national organizations, particularly those that engage and empower workers and low-income communities.

The funds support a mix of issue campaigns, with particular attention to potential "breakthrough" moments. Like the successful fight in Seattle for a $15 minimum wage, these are campaigns that transform the national debate by changing people's sense of what is possible. Because, in most cases, federal policy change is necessary to truly meet the goals of an inclusive economy, we support local campaigns that are embedded in a national strategy.

In our first year, the funds have supported campaigns with high impact and high leverage potential focused on:

- Raising wages and increasing worker protections like earned sick days;
- Increasing public investment in early care and education; and
- Changing the rules of our financial system.

TARGET STATES AND INITIAL INVESTMENTS

- Early Care and Education: The funds support the Center for Community Change and the Center for Popular Democracy to assist coalitions of early care and education workers, parents, and child care center owners in eight cities and to coordinate this work—and maximize its federal advocacy potential—through participation in a national “hub.”

- Wage and Leave Campaigns: The funds support ballot initiatives in Arizona, Colorado, Maine, Washington, and Albuquerque, NM, and a legislative campaign in Minnesota, which will have immediate impact for millions of working people and drive the momentum for federal reform.

- Changes to financial rules: The funds support the Hedge Clippers campaign in Florida, Minnesota, and Ohio, which exposes hedge funds and private equity as the dark actors behind conservative economic proposals, as well as the Take on Wall Street campaign, which seeks to expose the role of financialization in deepening economic and racial inequality and advance an ambitious set of Wall Street reforms.

ANTICIPATED IMPACT

- Minimum wage and earned sick leave victories in a strategic set of states, increasing wages and worker protections for millions of low-income workers while building the momentum for federal action. Going forward, the funds plan to invest in campaigns that increase workers’ access to paid family leave.

- New state and local investments in early care and education, including increased eligibility for child care subsidies, expanded access to public pre-K, and increased wages and benefits for child care workers. Taken together, these victories will provide additional economic supports for families with young children and the low-wage early care and education workforce, which is disproportionately comprised of women of color, and build momentum for federal investment.

- Better connections between broad anti-Wall Street sentiment and specific policy demands, through a combination of press work, organizing, and social media and digital engagement, increasing momentum for enacting a 21st Century Glass Steagall Act, closing the carried interest loophole, and enacting tougher rules to protect consumers from predatory lending.

- Increased awareness of and action to curb the financial services industry’s role in destroying good manufacturing jobs, expanding school privatization, and debt-profiteering. Going forward, the funds seek to further sharpen the racial justice lens on this work, supporting organizing campaigns that highlight racialized economic disparities caused by financialization and build power in communities of color.
New American Majority Fund/
New American Majority Action Fund

OPPORTUNITY STATEMENT

Building long term progressive political power requires investment in the infrastructure and issues that drive the engagement of the New American Majority and New American Majority Fund (together “the funds”). As demographics have shifted, the scale of investment has failed to keep up with the growth of key constituencies. Constituency-focused engagements remain siloed from one another and from the broader progressive engagement in states. And the progressive movement has only engaged a fraction of the emerging constituencies that will determine political power in the future.

FUND GOALS AND APPROACH

The Democracy Alliance has been committed to building the independent political power of communities of color and young people as key constituencies in the New American Majority through the Black Civic Engagement, Latino Engagement, and Youth Engagement Funds. But based on our knowledge that we must do more, the DA introduced the New American Majority Fund/New American Majority Action Fund, which aspire to build bridges, break down silos, and strengthen a more diverse set of political actors in states.

One of the core principles of the funds is that they should be additive, increasing resources to the field and not depleting support for critical constituency-specific infrastructure. To that end, the funds’ first priority has been to ensure that the Black, Latino, and Youth Engagement Funds each reach at least the highest amount of funding that each fund has been able to raise in the past three years.

Going forward, additional resources would allow the funds to undertake new work and invest in other emerging key constituencies such as Asians and Pacific Islanders Americans, women, the LGBTQ community, and white working class. Despite their increasing electoral importance, communities that make up the New American Majority face longstanding inequities that result in significant gaps in income, education, health, and wealth. By better aligning constituency-specific funding strategies and building new capacity, the funds have the potential to unite the interests of diverse communities and build stronger collective power.

All funds raised by NAM/NAMAF were granted to BCEF/BCEAF, LEF/LEAF, and YEF/YEAF. The NAM/NAMAF resources are also included in c3/c4 funds raised columns for BCEF/BCEAF, LEF/LEAF, and YEF/YEAF.

To provide a more complete picture, this memo reports on the work of both the 501(c)(3) Inclusive Economy Fund and the 501(c)(4) Inclusive Economy Action Fund. The operations of the two organizations are kept separate to the degree required by law.
TARGET STATES AND INITIAL INVESTMENTS

Given the urgency of maximizing resources to the field in a critical election year and the fact that none of the three individual constituency funds – Black Civic Engagement Fund, Latino Engagement Fund, and Youth Engagement Fund – matched their highest level of funding from the last three years, all of the funds' resources were allocated to the individual funds.

Beginning in 2017, the NAM fund would like to focus on AZ, FL, NC, OH, and VA to:

- Develop a cross-cutting issue agenda;
- Strengthen existing capacity where needed – especially 501(c)(4) capacity, which is still too often nascent in people of color led and mission-driven organizations;
- Identify new efficiencies in cross-cutting capacity support; and
- Expand the NAM electorate through added gap analysis.
Black Civic Engagement Fund/Black Civic Engagement Action Fund

OPPORTUNITY STATEMENT

The Black Civic Engagement Fund and the Black Civic Engagement Action Fund (referred to as “the funds”) were established in 2012 to develop and coordinate resources for investment in national and local organizations focused on engaging Black communities on nonpartisan issues related to voter participation. Since 2012, the funds have raised and granted nearly $8 million to 36 local and national organizations to lead voter education, voter protection, and mobilization efforts in nine states.

FUND GOALS AND APPROACH

The funds invest in strategic civic engagement efforts to support the people and organizations that have the greatest chance to advance change in the lives of African-Americans at the state, regional, and national levels. The funds invest in organizations that align with the funds’ vision and strategies.

Through strategic investments, BCEF/BCEAF seeks to support organizations that work to:

- Expand the Black electorate;
- Develop a new generation of civic and political leadership;
- Create an issue environment that reflects the pressing needs of Black communities; and
- Strengthen and rebuild the organizing and civic engagement infrastructure serving Black communities.

BCEF/BCEAF support organizations that prioritize the following strategies and principles:

- Engaging in continuous advocacy and organizing through nonpartisan integrated voter engagement;
- Demonstrating a commitment to innovation, experimentation, and to measurement and evaluation; and
- Building strategic alliances across communities, issues, and sectors.

BCEF/BCEAF are the only donor collaborations in the country specifically dedicated to building and strengthening Black civic infrastructure. We believe that providing a center of gravity for coordination among national groups, expansion of capacity among local anchor groups at the state and regional levels, and coordinating donor strategy and investments for this sector is a necessary component of sustaining infrastructure for progressive philanthropy.

To provide a more complete picture, this memo reports on the work of both the 501(c)(3) Inclusive Economy Fund and the 501(c)(4) Inclusive Economy Action Fund. The operations of the two organizations are kept separate to the degree required by law.
TARGET STATES AND INITIAL INVESTMENTS

From 2016-2018, the funds plan to focus on the collective impact of grantees and expanding the opportunities in the field to learn about the best ways to support Black organizing and the issues that affect the Black community.

Over the last few years, the United States has seen multiple protests and acts of resistance in response to state-sanctioned violence targeted at Black communities. In cities across the country, community leaders have engaged in collective action and civil disobedience, demanding a recognition for the value and protection of Black lives. Simultaneously, existing organizations have continued to organize their communities. In the next two years, BCEF/BCEAF will work to create synergy between emerging groups and existing institutions to share best practices, create greater capacity of organizations, and to build political power and activism within the Black community.

ANTICIPATED IMPACT

- Electoral: In 2016, the funds' partners and grantees contacted over 1 million Black voters at the door, by phone, and through the mail. Investment in engagement and infrastructure continues to be the way to turn irregular voters into habitual ones. In doing so, the electorate in key states will shift and develop into a more diverse one.

- Technology and Data: One of the funds' largest national grantees - Color of Change - created an innovative text messaging system to talk to young Black voters. At regular text-a-thons hosted throughout the cycle, 100,000 voters were contacted each weekend.

- Building New Infrastructure: In 2016, two new Black-led projects were launched in Virginia and North Carolina—BLOC-VA and BLOC-NC, respectively. These organizations grew in areas where little infrastructure existed and small changes could have big impact. Groups are using this election cycle to increase capacity to develop strong issue advocacy in 2017 and beyond.

- Research: The funds invested in a project from which a hub launched to better understand how to communicate with the Black community. The goal of the project was to find what moves the community to action to vote and to advocate.

- Diversified funding: The funds were able to expand the sources from which support was given to infrastructure-building and turnout for the Black community. This shift has helped grow the way in which Black voters are engaged for this cycle.
The Latino Engagement Fund and Latino Engagement Action Fund (LEF and LEAF, referred to jointly as "the funds") are expressly dedicated to countering the concerning trend of Latino disengagement in the political process. Latinos are not only a constituency to be mobilized in election years, but are a critical part of what should be our nation's governing class. The funds support groups on the ground that have spent years building relationships with the Latino community in their areas - the very people who we need to show up at the polls.

The funds connect short-term civic engagement goals with long-term progressive policy change and the development of progressive Latino leaders in target states. The funds build and leverage a strong and interconnected Latino civic engagement infrastructure in key battleground states and provide grantees and allies with groundbreaking research and tools needed to authentically mobilize Latinos.

Our approach to winning entails talking with Latinos as people, rather than voters. We support organizations that listen to Latino voices, work for pro-Latino policy changes, and embrace Latino leaders - and not just in election years. Specifically, the funds have outlined the following goals:

- Drive resources to high-volume field programs to educate and turnout Latino voters in target states.
- Scale communications programs and develop research-based messages to persuade and mobilize Latino voters.
- Produce and disseminate groundbreaking research and tools to increase efficacy of programs targeted at Latino voters.
- Connect short-term Latino civic engagement goals with long-term progressive, pro-Latino policy change campaigns.
- Invest in targeted leadership development programs for progressive Latino candidates.
- Strengthen the national narrative about why Latinos should care about voting and incorporate more Latino voices into the narrative that voting rights are under attack.
- Discredit conservative messages in the Latino community.
- Create long-term partnerships through coordinated programs with other 501(c)(3), 501(c)(4), and other efforts that engage the New American Majority.

The New Venture Fund (NVF) and the 1630 Fund serve as the fiscal sponsor for the C3 and C4 funds respectively, with legal and fiscal oversight for all grant making.

To provide a more complete picture, this memo reports on the work of both the 501(c)(3) Inclusive Economy Fund and the 501(c)(4) Inclusive Economy Action Fund. The operations of the two organizations are kept separate to the degree required by law.
TARGET STATES AND INITIAL INVESTMENTS

The LEF and LEAF focus investments in Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, and Virginia — states with large Latino populations and strong Latino-led or immigrant rights organizations. Going forward, the funds will work in other states to seize unique opportunities. The racist and anti-immigrant rhetoric that emerged in the 2016 presidential race provided a unique opportunity to engage Latinos in target states this year. Investments focused on two main categories of work:

• Latino Community Education and Mobilization: in Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Nevada, North Carolina, and Virginia, the funds supported Latino-led organizations to drive Latino turnout in November.

• Electoral Targeting and Persuasion: in Arizona, Colorado, and Florida, the LEAF supported Latino-led organizations to persuade Latinos to vote for progressives up and down the ballot.

ANTICIPATED IMPACT

The LEF and LEAF Advisory Boards envision electoral bodies that look like and represent the progressive base — including Latinos. We seek policies at the state and federal level that improve the lives of Latinos on a daily basis. In order to achieve these outcomes, we must ensure that:

• State-based, Latino-led organizations have the capacity to mobilize the Latino community throughout the year and from year to year;

• More progressive Latinos become regular voters and understand the voting process;

• More Latinos are mobilized to elect progressive candidates;

• More Latinos work to hold elected officials accountable for enacting progressive policies; and

• More progressive Latinos are elected to leadership positions.

Understanding that there are systems in this country that institutionalize barriers to an equitable future for Latinos, the LEF and LEAF will prioritize policy efforts that align with the Democracy Alliance’s three pillars: creating a fair democracy, building an inclusive economy, and nurturing a health planet.

The funds will also prioritize intersectional projects that work to mobilize multiple segments of the New American Majority. With the creation of the state tables, progressive groups have made great strides by communicating and working together. There is more success to be had by moving from short-term, transactional projects to long-term, integrated plans. By understanding and clearly articulating the interconnectedness of our work, we can further address structural inequalities.
Youth Engagement Fund / Youth Engagement Action Fund

OPPORTUNITY STATEMENT

Young people are the progressive movement's long-term competitive advantage against the political Right. The Youth Engagement Fund and Youth Engagement Action Fund (referred to jointly as "the funds") provide support to increase youth voting and progressive activism in places where their voices have the greatest impact. In 2016, the funds invested more than $2.5 million to drive youth turnout in the states where young people are most likely to have high impact.

FUND GOALS AND APPROACH

The Youth Engagement Fund has three goals in 2017 and 2018:

1) Voter Mobilization: Double college student voter turnout in high impact states

2) Field-Building: Build the capacity and leadership of minority youth in places with the greatest racial and other socio-economic disparities

3) Philanthropic Advocacy: Expand the number of individual and institutional donors who support the fund's programmatic initiatives and align their giving to the fund's goals

The funds encourage rigorous data-driven solutions to youth leadership and civic engagement. In 2016, the funds commissioned two innovative statistical indexes to target grant making into states where youth have the potential to be most determinative to election outcomes. In addition, the funds regularly conduct landscape analyses of higher education institutions and community organizations, to identify the best ideas for catalyzing youth participation in progressive issue campaigns and elections, and determine whether or not voting is becoming more habitual among a targeted universe of young people. In addition, the funds measure important process metrics, such as growth in support base, new partnerships between community-based organizations and campus administrators, and the number of institutional or individual donors supporting year-round voter engagement.

To provide a more complete picture, this memo reports on the work of both the 501(c)(3) Inclusive Economy Fund and the 501(c)(4) Inclusive Economy Action Fund. The operations of the two organizations are kept separate to the degree required by law.
TARGET STATES AND INITIAL INVESTMENTS

During 2016, the funds deepened their partnership with the Center for Information and Research on Civic Learning & Engagement (CIRCLE) through the development and dissemination of the 2016 Youth Electoral Significance Index (YESI). The YESI triggered data-driven conversations about the key states where youth participation on issue, advocacy, and election-year efforts will be determinative.

The funds focused their investments in 8 of the states where CIRCLE data indicated young people had the most influence—Arizona, Colorado, Florida, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Wisconsin.

In addition to influencing YEF/YEAF grant-making, the YESI also affected the narrative about young voters and the 2016 election, from one of skepticism and even negative view toward young people, to a more positive, data-driven one promoting youth outreach.

ANTICIPATED IMPACT

- Electoral: The funds grantees contacted more than half a million unique, young voters in the states and congressional districts where youth are poised to have a disproportionately high electoral impact in 2016.

- Data: The funds commissioned two groundbreaking new data tools from CIRCLE that have triggered data-driven conversations about where youth are disproportionately likely to affect federal elections and close racial disparities in civic participation. The tools have generated an estimated 647,000 views and almost 65,000 social shares.

- Increased Capacity and Leadership: Thanks to support from the funds, more than 900 campuses have begun measuring their student voting rates through the National Study of Learning Voting and Engagement (NSLVE) reports, many in the DA’s 2020 states. In addition, the funds’ grantees have developed more than 100 emerging leaders in key states like North Carolina, Ohio, Arizona, Colorado, and Wisconsin, who can lead campaigns and potentially run for office.

- Philanthropic Advocacy: Over the past year, the funds have seen at least a 25% increase in the number of donors who support the funds’ programmatic initiatives and are aligning new philanthropic resources, particularly for field-building efforts with youth of color.
State Engagement Initiative

OPPORTUNITY STATEMENT

The State Engagement Initiative (SEI) is the response to the Right's ascendance in the states. SEI builds on the Committee on States' (CoS) effort to build donor and infrastructure networks in states. CoS creates donor tables in states and helps donors align around multi-cycle investment plans designed to build progressive power. SEI then solicits support for the plans from national donors, matching their donations with in-state support. This formula has proven powerful, increasing in-state donations this cycle.

FUND GOALS AND APPROACH

For the last decade, a small group of conservative financiers instituted strategic investments to wrest control of our national political institutions. Although their goal was to achieve dominance of their conservative ideology in Washington, their taproot of their power is state-based. It is focused on controlling the narrative, developing leaders, and winning crucial elections (legislative, judicial, statewide) in order to control redistricting.

The CoS has spent the last decade organizing communities of progressive donors in states around smart, strategic, aligned investments to counter what the Right has built.

Through SEI, CoS is partnering with the DA and other national donors to build a long-term framework that will put progressives in a strong position for 2018, 2020, and the next redistricting process. Our goals are to win progressive policy through the electoral process, increase alignment of strategic investments, evaluate programs and provide accountability, and build stronger donor networks in critical states. The secondary goal is to continue to expand its pool of progressive donors in each state by providing financial incentives for investments. Every dollar that is invested through SEI is matched by in-state donors.

SEI's investments include civic engagement efforts to mobilize communities of color, young people, women, and other key constituencies that comprise the New American Majority. They also include sophisticated communications and messaging efforts, state of the art data operations, and key issue campaigns that make real change in voters' lives and dovetail with smart electoral strategies.

ADVISORY BOARD

The New Venture Fund (NVF) and the 1630 Fund serve as the fiscal sponsor for the c3 and c4 funds respectively, with legal and fiscal oversight for all grant making.

To provide a more complete picture, this memo reports on the work of both the 501(c)(3) Inclusive Economy Fund and the 501(c)(4) Inclusive Economy Action Fund. The operations of the two organizations are kept separate to the degree required by law.
TARGET STATES AND INITIAL INVESTMENTS

SEI grants are predicated on the cooperation and monitoring of in-state staff of the donor tables as well as the recommendations of in-state America Votes directors. We have attempted to coordinate our effort in the relevant states with the field programs of Fund for the Future as well. Our funding was directed directly to the accounts of the state donor tables for regranting in the states or directly to groups recommended.

Through this work SEI worked with the following states this year:

- Arizona
- Florida
- Georgia
- Michigan
- Minnesota
- New Mexico
- North Carolina
- Ohio
- Pennsylvania
- Wisconsin

ANTICIPATED IMPACT

The dual goals of the State Engagement Initiative are both to change state policy through the electoral process and create pooled funds to leverage new state investments at a minimum ratio of 1:1. Additionally, SEI seeks to build in state capacity of state donor tables as a central hub for all political and civic engagement work in a state, thus providing stronger strategic thinking, alignment, reduction of duplication, and accountability.

The states in which we are working have either total conservative dominance at all levels of governance or mixed governance, so there is no state here where we can currently exercise progressive policy on the economy, the environment, health care or the social safety net. We have also seen restrictions on women’s health care in many of these states as well as efforts that fundamentally undermine the right to vote. These states also have some of the worst of the partisan gerrymandering in the country which results in elected representatives attempt pick their voters rather than the voters.

Each SEI state has a plan outlining the desired progressive gains in 2016, 2018, and 2020. Given our investments that were matched and aligned on the state level, we hope that the new political calculus in the states is far different after the election and we can once again advance public policy.

APPENDIX A: Dashboard Rubrics for APOs

Assessments of DA APOs' Governance and Finances were based on the following criteria.

Each organization's materials (written responses to questions and financial documents) were reviewed by DA Strategy and Planning staff members, who assigned ratings for each item.

The potential range of scores on the governance rubric is 6-18. What is reported in the dashboard as "good governance" is the percentage of APOs that received scores of 12 or higher.

The potential range of scores on the finance rubric is 7-21. What is reported in the dashboard as "solid financials" is the percentage of grant partners achieving a score of at least 15.

The Strategy and Planning team is available to answer any questions that DA Partners may have about individual organizations included in the DA 2020 Vision Investment Portfolio.

DEMONCRACY ALLIANCE 2020 VISION:
STRENGTHENING OUR FOCUS ON EQUITY AND JUSTICE

It's been more than a year since the Democracy Alliance (DA) released our 2020 Vision and accompanying investment portfolio. The central question we sought to address with the Vision 2020 Portfolio was: for what purposes, what ends, do we seek to build a stronger progressive infrastructure? It was that question that led us to orient our work around addressing the three pillars of an inclusive economy, a fair democracy, and a healthy planet, three of the most significant structural elements of enduring progressive change.

The portfolio’s three pillars have several commonalities – most notably, that progress towards our goals requires deeper investment in places and people – state-based infrastructure and the key constituencies that comprise the New American Majority. Consequently, the DA's 2020 Vision Portfolio originally framed states and the New American Majority not as distinct areas of investment but as cross-cutting priorities.

ORIGINAL FRAMEWORK
Like any framework, the 2020 Vision is meant to grow, evolve, and adapt in order to ensure that our work achieves maximum impact - that we articulate a vision that attracts and inspires a vibrant community of like-minded progressive donors and provides a clear and compelling vision of what we hope to achieve. As we have reflected upon our work this past year - the shared commonalities among our pillars and the inadequacy of our current framework to shine a light on and support the real-time battles for human rights and dignity that are fundamental to our ultimate goal of a more progressive nation - we recognize that our vision requires an important clarification of what we seek - namely, a more pronounced emphasis on Equity and Justice as a fourth core pillar of our vision.

Although we are proposing to lift up Equity and Justice as a fourth pillar, we are not implying that this work is separate or distinct from our democracy, economy, and climate work. Rather, it is a way to reflect its centrality to the DA's 2020 Vision and to hold ourselves accountable to specific goals. Adding a pillar focused on a just and equitable society also allows us to deepen our analysis of our other three pillars, recognizing their interconnectedness - the ways in which the fight for economic inclusion, a just democracy, and a safe and sustainable planet are fundamentally fights for equity and justice. Doing so also allows us to recognize how rooted our priority issues are in persistent biases and deeper structural inequalities - enduring race and gender wealth gaps; pernicious housing and school segregation; the widespread criminalization of people of color; mass incarceration; and the overrepresentation of white men, particularly straight white men, and underrepresentation of everyone else in political and economic decision making. The economic, democratic, and environmental disparities that the DA's 2020 Vision seeks to remedy are, at their core, reflections of power, and solutions will require shifts - some seismic - in how power is manifest and expressed. Working to make these shifts will require the DA to support work - and embrace policy changes - that go beyond our original three areas of focus, as issues such as reproductive freedom, LGBT rights, and criminal justice are some of the most important equity and justice battles of our time.
The urgency of adjusting our 2020 Vision framework has become even more pronounced in the current political climate. President-Elect Donald Trump's election campaign gave racism, xenophobia, and misogyny a megaphone and legitimized an ugly - and even violent - expression of bigotry in this country. This rhetoric will not go away post-election, and progressives will need to work more vigilantly to help our country become one that recognizes, values, and protects the humanity of all people.

Although the 2016 election results were shocking and disturbing, we must also remember that we are in a moment of tremendous instability, and there are also positive signs, most notably in organic and organized social movements’ ability to push back, shift our national consciousness, and continue the march towards inclusion and justice. It is this work that we must continue to support if we are to see meaningful progress over the next several years.

- The LGBT movement, fresh off its marriage equality victory, is turning its focus to so-called “religious freedom” laws, transphobia, and other forms of discrimination based on sexual orientation or gender identity. Many of these issues unite movements, building alliances between, for example, the LBGT community and religious minority communities.

- The Movement for Black Lives is transforming the national consciousness and political dialogue on police brutality and mass incarceration and, through its recently released policy platform, demonstrating how movements can operate in shared struggle with one another.

- Millennial activists are finding new and powerful ways to shake up the political establishment - and win - achieving major human rights victories for Dreamers, helping to defeat the Keystone Pipeline, converting Senator Sanders' 2016 presidential campaign critique of a rigged economy and broken democracy into core Democratic Party platform planks - and perhaps much more.

- A multi-racial reproductive justice movement continues to fight for the right that remains so elusive, especially for low-income women of color - a woman's right to control her own body.

- And in the wake of unprecedented expressions of misogyny in the 2016 presidential campaign, including the Republican presidential nominee making crude jokes about sexual assault and allegations that he sexually assaulted numerous women over a more than 30-year period, women are taking to social media - and other forums - to lift the veil on sexual violence and challenge a “rape culture” that condones, is complicit with, and excuses the degradation of women.

Progress is possible, but at this pivotal moment in American politics, it is far from inevitable. Lifting up equity and justice as an explicit focus for our work provides us with an important directive – to harness the voices and power of all of the identities that comprise the progressive movement into our analysis and investment portfolio.
Adding an equity and justice lens requires us to weave a more complex and nuanced understanding of race, gender, class, sexual orientation, and other identities – and the intersections between and among them – into all of our work. It does not, however, mean that we should dilute our focus. Just as we have with the other pillars of the DA's 2020 Vision portfolio, it is important to articulate specific goals that investment in progressive infrastructure could achieve by 2020 and strategies for achieving them. Many of these goals and strategies were already implicit in the 2020 Vision portfolio, but we believe there's value in naming them and monitoring our progress towards achieving them over the next several years.

A successful effort would achieve the following:

- Material reductions in economic, democratic, and climate disparities across race, class, gender, age, and sexual orientation lines. In other words, not only are we winning policy reforms that make our economy more inclusive, our democracy more just, and our climate more safe and sustainable, but we are prioritizing the policies and campaigns that will have the most beneficial impact on the most structurally excluded among us.

- Strengthened leadership development pipelines, with a focus on people of color, women, Millennials, LGBT people, criminal justice impacted individuals, and people with disabilities and more diverse leadership within the progressive movement, particularly organizations that are a part of the DA's 2020 Vision investment portfolio.

- Increased political, economic, and cultural power in communities of color and other marginalized communities, as evidenced by the increased agency and the leadership of these communities in organizing, political, and issue advocacy campaigns – and victories.

- Additional policy victories that, although outside of the DA's other three priority areas (e.g., criminal justice, LGBT rights, reproductive freedom), are critical to achieving a more just and equal society, one that respects the rights and dignity of all people.

The recommended investment approach has the following elements:

- Strengthened permanent, grassroots infrastructure in communities of color and other marginalized communities that is better integrated/aligned with other pieces of progressive infrastructure within states and poised to build a continuous and robust pipeline of leaders and a sustainable mechanism to engage, empower, and mobilize an expanded base of progressive Americans. One of the greatest strengths of the Vision 2020 portfolio is the increased emphasis on place – the 12 states in which the DA's 2020 State Funds are focusing their investments. States offer tremendous opportunity for progressive power- and movement-building, as state and local organizing is better equipped to connect a growing progressive base to the process and impacts of policymaking and politics. By layering our investments in a common set of states, we have the potential to forge deeper connections between issues, communities, and components of the progressive infrastructure needed to win. Such work allows us to maximize our use of limited resources and accelerate the pace of change.
• A core focus, within each of the DA's program areas, on the experience and leadership of the most marginalized individuals and communities. For example, the DA's Climate Fund is focused on supporting climate campaigns led by people of color in frontline communities. The DA's Democracy Fund has made the restoration of voting rights for those with a criminal conviction history a primary funding focus. And the DA's Inclusive Economy Fund has prioritized work around paid leave and early care and education, reinforcing the fact that issues long framed as "women" or "family" issues are indeed core to our nation's economic growth and prosperity. Such work should and must expand, to ensure we consistently be challenging ourselves to strengthen the race, gender, and sexual orientation and gender identity lens through which we view all of our work.

• An expansion of the DA's New American Majority work to include specific strategies for building independent political power among women, LGBT people, working-class Americans, and other communities of color that don't have a dedicated engagement fund (e.g., Asian/Pacific Islanders). From the outset, this has been the goal of the New American Majority (NAM) Fund, but we have much more work to do to determine how the fund can have its biggest impact with other NAM constituencies. Developing these additional strategies – and aligning them with new and existing strategies for building black, Latino, and Millennial power, will be one of our highest priorities for the coming year.
The 2020 State Funds: This aligned set of collaborative funds aim to build on the DA's long-standing investment in civic engagement of communities of color to make significant changes in a handful of states. These new funds will build on existing efforts (the State Engagement Initiative and the New America Majority Funds – Latino, Youth and Black Civic Engagement) as well as initiatives in other key communities like the white working class, LGBTQ and Asian-American/Pacific Islanders, but link this work more tightly to issue organizing and infrastructure investments. The 2020 State Funds will focus on 12 states to advance progressive policy and electoral victories, shape political representation, and support the mobilization of key progressive constituencies.

Victory 2021 Plan  The 2021 Victory Plan is a strategic initiative designed to outline what needs to be accomplished in order to win our essential objective of dramatically reducing the influence of money in politics by 2021. The plan encourages collaboration and coordination around opportunities to win and provides information to help donors make strategic funding decisions that fill gaps, support new strategic needs, and build upon the successes and expertise within the reform community. This plan features a highly engaged base of donors and focus on clear priorities. The priorities identified within the plan are focused on measurable results and on the best and most effective strategies to win. Funders who want to support specific aspects of the 2021 Victory Plan can write checks directly to participating organizations or to 2021's funds at Impact Assets and Sixteen Thirty Fund. Piper Fund and Issue One, both of whom serve on Victory 2021's Executive Committee, also support closely aligned work.
